Personnel, Museum, city election occupy council

At last week's long City Council meeting – it lasted from 8 o'clock until midnight – every item considered may not have taken its proper proportion of time, but a wide range of such items was indeed handled.

In addition to the long discussion of whether or not the Carmel Museum of Art should be taken over by the City – a matter discussed elsewhere in this ussue of the Pine Cone – the Council ratified the appointment or re-appointment of members of city commissions and boards, acted to hold the line against any oil exploration off Carmel Bay, considered truck signs, employed and promoted city workers, approved a fire department organizational formula, established hours for the city election April 14, and passed a resolution of appreciation for the long service of recently retired Frie Chief James R. Belvail.

Mrs. Elise DeC. Beaton was reappointed to the Library Board while Olof Dahlstrand and Dorothea Roberts were reappointed to the City Planning Commission. Robert Evans, a former member of the Carmel Cultural Commission, was given a new appointment on the Commission to replace D. Paul Medalie, who recently resigned.

In accord with its long record of opposition to both off-shore oil exploration and oil-drilling, the Council gave its unanimous endorsement to a bill now in Congress which would have the effect of prohibiting future exploitation of under-sea areas such as those off Monterey County, beyond the waters controlled by the State (which extend only three miles from the shore.) The proposed law is S-3093, which is sponsored by both of California's Senators – Alan Cranston and George Murphy, as well as by Wisconsin's Gaylor Nelson and Maine's Edward Muskie.

Signs at the entrances to the City, advising truck drivers of the City's specific double-parking regulations, have long been a subject of discussion both in the Council and in the Planning Commission. Last week the Council ordered erection of redwood-bordered metal signs at both the Carpenter Street and Rio Road entrances to Carmel.

Employment of a new police officer in the next-to-lowest instead of the lowest salary classification, and of street department equipment operator (Donald J. Martin) in a similar classification, was authorized, on the plea that such employees could not be secured at the bottom step in the city salary scale.

Formal promotion of the new Fire Chief Robert Updike to his present position, was approved, as was also the advancement of Policewoman Ann Agee to a full Police Officer classification.

Promotions for Police Officer M.D. Singletary, Equipment Operator G.T. Holt, and Planning Director John Riling, to the next higher salary step in their respective classifications, was also authorized.

The advancement of Vern Allred to the position of assistant chief in the Fire Department was approved, as was also the promotion of Robert Meloney to the position of captain in that department.

Hours for the city election to be held next April 14th, were established. Polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. Two city council positions will be voted upon at that election – those of Councilmen Herbert Blanks and Ken Brown. Blanks is completing a second term on the Council, while Brown was appointed

Annual drive for CBA members

Anticipating the biggest business year in the history of Carmel-by-the-Sea, the business men of the community, through the Carmel Business Association, are beginning the annual drive for new members.

Applications to interested prospective members will be mailed in January.

The purpose of the early drive is to be sure that no one is left out of the new directory which will be printed after March.

Anyone who does not receive an application, telephone the office, 624-2522, or call at the CBA office between 10:30 and 3:30, when Harriet Meyer, the executive secretary is there.

The location is the west side of Dolores, between 5th and 6th, in the Los Cortes Court.

Membership in the Carmel Business Association is 100% tax deductible.

Grunsky-Wood want Monterey 1970 capital

Senator Donald Grunsky and Assemblyman Bob Wood have introduced a concurrent resolution which would declare the City of Monterey the honorary capitol of California for 1970.

The resolution, which has to pass both houses of the Legislature, urged Governor Reagan to officially proclaim the historic city the 1970 honorary capitol in commemoration of its bicentennial year.

The measure notes that in 1603 Mass was said at the foot of an oak tree on the

Platinum prints, members, in dual Friends exhibit

The Friends of Photography opened 1970 with an exceptional double exhibit at the organizations Sunset Center headquarters.

Rare and outstanding platinum prints by eight top-rank cameramen are featured in the main gallery, the collection made possible through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. Beaumont Newhall, The Lane Foundation, Ansel Adams, Imogen Cunningham, Evan Evans and the George Eastman House.

British photographer William Willis who first used platinum for making photo prints, patented his Platinotype process in 1873. It came into general use in 1880 when he simplified the process and marketed prepared paper.

The rarity factor traces to discontinuance of the manufacture of platinum paper in 1937 because of the high cost of the precious metal and changing taste.

An example of the permanence and stability of platinum prints is the show's 1894 print, from the works of Frederick H. Evans, of Aubrey Beardsley, founder of the "nouveau art," and one of the most widely exhibited of photos.

Even earlier is Peter Henry Emerson's "Return From the Fields" showing all the sensitive lights and shades it captured in 1887.

Carmel's late Edward Weston is represented with more than 20 splendid examples of landscape and portraiture. And among another exhibitor's prints is a portrait of Weston by Margarethe Mather.

Other works in the collection are by Alvin Langdon Coburn, Paul Outerbridge and Imogen Cunningham, the latter also, interestingly, exhibiting in the second of the twin shows.

Several seasoned local photographers have called the show in the second gallery "the really wild one – very exciting." This is a juried membership exhibit featuring 66 accepted entries, with the widest variation of subject, theme and approach. Much of it is young, experimental and innovative.

So enthusiastic was the response of the membership to this exhibit that, now labeled Group No. 1, it is to be followed by another later hanging.

Both collections will remain on view until Jan. 25.

Exhibitors in the membership show include: Dail Adams, Eric Aitkin, Orlando Cataneda, Jane Cowles, Gary De Young, Michael Di Biase, W. E. Ferguson, Wayne Gravning, Josepha Haveman, Hershberger, Jack Hoover, Quintin Howard, Julianne M. Howe, Eric Johnson;

Richard Julian, Hortense M. Leone, Steve McCarol, William G. McDonald, Dan McCormick, Alan McGee, Barry McWayne, E.L. Modlin, Boone Morrison, Joan Murray, John Oldenkamp, Jay riskind and John Running.

New 18-hole course on 17-Mile Drive insures 'Golf Capitol of World' title

Pebble Beach, site of the 29th Annual Crosby Pro-Am next week, has taken another giant step toward insuring its title as "The Golf Capitol of the World," with recent announcement of plans for a new course along the 17-Mile Drive.

The proposed 18 hole, par 71 layout at Spanish Bay near the Pacific Grove entrance to the forest is part of a multi-million dollar hotel complex planned for that area. Zoning for the site was approved last month by Monterey County Supervisors.

First plans as developed by Jack Neville, designer of the Pebble Beach links, and Roger Larson, manager of Del Monte Properties Company's golf department, are for a course 6485 yards long.

Fifteen of the 18 holes will play very much like the first five at Spyglass Hill. Fairways will be narrow, with the roughs remaining as sand and native shrubs. The greens, according to Neville, will be tight and well trapped but slightly larger than those at Pebble.

A stream that runs through the site will intersect the 7th and 12th fairways, parallel the 13th and cut in front of the 10th and 12th greens. Tees will be multiple and at different angles and elevations as of right now.

Five holes will play right on the water and two will be within 50 yarsd of the ocean. A double green to serve the first and eighteenth holes is also under study.

Longest hole on the par 36 front nine will be the 550 yards seventh. Another five will be 515 yards. Two par threes of approximately 165 and 175 yards are also part of the opening nine.

The Spanish Bay course will be the seventh golf course at Pebble Beach, all of them built by the company over the past 50 years. Pebble, opened in 1919, was until this year ranked as the number one course in California. That honor now belongs to Spyglass Hill, opened in 1966.

Amati Ensemble performs Jan.21

As third in the current series, the Monterey Peninsula Concert Association will present the Amati Ensemble Berlin at the Pacific Grove Junior High School Auditorium Wednesday evening, Jan. 21, at 8:15 p.m.

The Ensemble, composed of six violins, two violas, two cellos and a contrabass, "tried out" its initial concerts in smaller German cities in 1965. Almost immediately their success resulted in tours of Europe, North Africa, and South America.

Last fall they toured France and Belgium, and following their first tour of the United States this season, they will tour Italy during April, followed later by concerts in the Near East, Japan, and South America in 1971.

The ensemble rents a large house in Berlin for work and rehearsals, and offers concerts on n intimate level. Their title is the group's salute to one of the earliest and greatest families of stringed instrument makers, and Rainer Koelble plays a 1698 Amati violin.

Rainer Koelble, artistic director and concertmaster, studied with Professor Tibor Varga, and later became concertmaster of the Stuttgart Chamber Orchestra. He has also performed as soloist with numerous European orchestras, including the Amsterdam Concertgebouw Orchestra.

Admission to the concerg is limited to members of the association, and to members of similar associations on a space available basis.

RETIREMENT ANNOUNCED – Irene Alexander, the Monterey Peninsula Herald's versatile and influential drama and art critic, announces her retirement as a full time employee after 25 years in the newsroom. Besides her role as a reporter and editor, Miss Alexander was active in such organizations as the Arts Coordinating Council of Monterey and the Monterey County Symphony. Miss Alexander plans to continue reviewing theatrical productions on the Monterey Peninsula.

Grunsky, Wood bill would halt huge rock festivals

State Senator Donald L. Grunsky, with Assemblyman Bob Wood as co-author, has introduced legislation to aid local authorities in preventing the holding of large rock festivals and other such destructive gatherings.

Grunsky's introduction of the bill was prompted by his representing San Luis Obispo County where local authorities were successful in thwarting a Christmas week rock festival, and Monterey County, where a festival is rumored for March 21st.

"Regardless of the good intentions of the promoters and a majority of the participants, festivals at Woodstock, Miami, and in Alameda County, have dramatically shown that trouble is inevitable as a consequence of these large heterogenius gatherings," Grunsky said.

He also pointed out that promoters typically select a remote rural area for rock festivals, where law enforcement officials are hampered and unable to effectively handle the problems created by the uncontrolled festival crowds.

"The damage to private property adjacent to the festival sites and cost to taxpayers has become staggering," Grunsky continued.

"The promoters make inadequate or no preparation to handle the crowds and communities in these rural areas have no resources to provide the necessary sanitary facilities, traffic control, medical care and police protection.

"These festivals also are objectionable because of the wide-spread use of marijuana and alcohol by minors, in addition to the use of dangerous and hallucinogenic drugs. Authorities also are unable to protect innocent victims from rape and assault, encouraged by the nudity and loose moral atmosphere."

"We do not intend to arbitrarily outlaw all festivals but to leave it to local officials to prevent such a gathering unless they are satisfied they can handle the crowds and are assured that the taxpayers will not bear the heavy burden of cost to the state and local government resulting from an improperly planned and uncontrolled festival.

Grunsky's legislation requires promoters of rock festivals and such events to post bond in amounts specified by the local entity to endemnify the state and local governments for the extraordinary costs created.

The bill also imposes strick liability on the property owner, who permits the holding of such an event on his property. "This," Grunsky said, "will allow the state and local authorities to look to the property owner as well as the promoter's bond to recover their law enforcement costs, plus allowing the innocent residents of the area to recover for damages to their property from the vandalism and destructiveness of trespassers attending the festival. This will discourage a selfish property owner from making a fast buck renting his land at the expense of his neighbors."

Records of the Altamont Festival show an excess of 75 injuries to participants severe enough to require medical attention, four babies born, one unattended death by drowning and one death by murder. Alameda Sheriff's deputies reported numerous arrests including two attempted suicides, while Highway Patrol Officers reported 18 accidents, 23 injuries, two fatalities by hit and run and more than 40 vehicles towed from the scene.

Robert Hannon, Alameda County Supervisor, said local ranchers are contemplating damage suits to recover their losses for livestock killed or scattered when fences were torn down and for loss of pasture due to broken glass and other debris harmful to livestock.

Attorneys for the ranchers indicate suits will be filed as well as for general damages caused by the tons of litter left on private propert, vandalism, acts of obscenity and threats of violence.

Johnson celebrates 40 years with BankAmerica

August H. Johnson, popular Carmel banker and civic leader, celebrates his 40th anniversary with Bank of America this month.

He is manager of the Carmel Branch, the position he assumed in 1959 when the branch first opened.

Johnson began his banking career as a bookkeeper and teller in Eureka, and transferred to the inspection department at the San Francisco head office in 1938.

He was promoted to inspector in 1943, and advanced to operations officer at the Burlingame Branch in 1945.

Johnson is treasurer of the Rotary Club; Carmel Red Cross; Central Mission Trails Heart Association, and Friends of Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies.

He is president of the Monterey Bay Boy Scouts and director of the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce and past presidet of the Monterey Peninsula Community Chest.

SJS applications halt at 3,500

Acceptance of freshman class applications into San Jose State College for the fall semester was closed Jan. 6 when the applications figure hit the 3,500 mark.

Only 1,800 FTE (full-time equivalent students) will be admitted into the college next fall.

Meanwhile more than 6,000 junior-senior applications have been accpeted during the enrollment period.

The largest first-day enrollment period in SJSC's history was experienced Friday, Jan. 2, when 10,180 students hand-delivered or mailed admission applications for the 1970 fall semester.

S.F. Boat Show

The largest sailboat fleet ever to drop anchor at the San Francisco National Sports Boat Show will be on display at the 28th annual exposition, through Jan. 18, at the Cow Palace with all that's new for 1970.

Among the lates beauties will be the Catalina 22, the ideal family fun cruiser that's also a trailerable, rugged ocean racer. Her high performance planning hull and full mast head sail make her a tough competitor.

Luxury cruisers, acres of fishing, camping, hunting and other displays are all a part of this great outdoorsmen's exposition.

Show times will be daily from 2 to 11 p.m.; Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m.; Sundays from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Wedding Bells

Sharon Wilson and Jay Steven Binns married

Sharon Wilson of Carmel and Jay Steven Binns of Palo Alto were married Saturday, Jan. 10 in a small home wedding.

The 4 p.m. ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roderick Neil Wilson.

Sharon wore a long, silk marquisette redingoat over an empire gown which had been made by her grandmother for her mother's wedding. The bridal bouquet was a nosegay of stephanotis, white roses and violets.

Nicki Wilson McMahan of Berkeley was her sister's matron of honor.

Best man at the ceremony was Gregory Dexter of Los Angeles.

The bride is a third generation Carmelite. Her maternal grandmother was Mrs. Jo Newmark and she is also the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland A. Wilson of Pacific Grove.

Sharon attended Carmel schools and was president of the Leader's Club and Girl's League Rally Club.

She graduated from U.C. at Berkeley in the spring of 1969 as an anthropology major.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Barry Binns. He has a brother, Byron.

Jay is a graduate of Cubberly High School in Palo Alto. He attended Cal-Poly and spent his senior year of college traveling and studying in Europe.

After a honeymoon in Maui, the couple plan to reside in Yosemite where Jay will assume the position of assistant manager for the former Curry Co.

Garden wedding for Rita Joyce

A reception at the Carmel home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Meade Williams followed the wedding of their nephew, Cimarron P. Conway of Carmel and Rita E. Joyce of Laguna Beach.

The 2 p.m. garden ceremony at the Williams home was performed by the Rev. Herbert Beierle.

Rita was married in a street length dress of white brocade and attended by Mrs. Vincent Hagel of Laguna Beach.

Scott M. Conway, brother of the groom, was best man.

Joyce of Spokane, Washington. Her husband, a graduate of Syracuse University in New York, is sports editor of the Laguna Beach Post-News.

The couple are at home in Laguna Beach after a honeymoon at Quail Lodge in Carmel Valley.

Educators hold Carmel meeting

Last November, the Monterey Peninsula School District was chosen by the National Education Association and the California Teacher's Association as one of five pilot laboratories for educational improvement research in the nation.

This week, MPSD members met at the La Playa Hotel for an introspective look at the educational system in light of community needs.

Twenty educators, including teachers, concelors, principals, a fact finding group from Washington, D.C., and Monterey schools superintendent, D.D. Woddinton participated in the workshop.

The conference members divided into five small groups to explore problems in depth and plan possible solutions.

Among the areas discussed were staff utilization, the relevance of the curriculum to the future life of the student, research and development of the curriculum to better fit the needs of the student, and ways to improve the learning process and update teaching methods using techniques such as new designs in classroom construction and flexible grouping arrangements.

Through discussions of new innovations in education, the committee is laying the groundwork for improvements that will enable 9000 national teachers organizations throughout the U.S. to adapt techniques that will best serve their own school districts and develop their particular areas of interest.

Among the Carmel and Pebble Beach residents participating in the program are Lucille Scholefield of Pebble Beach, past president of the MBTA and current chairman of the classroom teacher committee, Diane Pitcher, associate chairman of the MBTA California Teachers Association Committee and Robert Beck, an elementary teacher from Highland School who is at present on leave of absence studying new methods of curriculum improvement.

Glenn Leonoff, teacher and credentialed psychologist, will present a demonstration lecture on Parent Effectiveness Training (PET) at Carmel's Middle School, Jan. 19 at 7 p.m.

The program which is open to the public is free of charge, will explain the aims of PET, a course designed to train parents to deal with family conflicts. The parent learns techniques of talking effectively with their children, listening accurately to their children's opinions and solving conflicts so taht the self esteem of both parent and child is preserved.

Following the demonstration lecture it will be possible to register for the course which consists of eight three hour meetings. The tentative starting date is set for January 28, 1970.

If parents wish, they may bring their adolescent children with them to the demonstration lecture.

Those people who will not be able to attend the lecture, but who wish more information about the course, may call Mrs. Hugh Smith 624-8953 or Mr. Glenn Leonoff 659-4503

Science grant for teachers

A $36,445 grant from the National Science Foundation will allow 33 junior high school teachers to learn more about the subject of mathematics at a summer school Institute on the San Jose State College campus.

Director of the Institute, Dr. Kenneth A. Fowler, professor of mathematics at SJSC, reports that six-units of advance college credit will be available for the six-week Institute which begins on June 22- July 31.

Funds ranging between $360 to $450 will be available during the six-week period depending if the participant lives at home or on campus.

To be eligible for a stipend an applicant must have taught mathematics in grades 7 to 9 for at least three years, and must now be teaching at least one mathematics course in grades 7 to 9.

Two courses will be offered and each participant will be required to enroll in both. Assisting Dr. Fowler, will be Dr. High M. Edgar, associate professor of mathematics at SJSC and the associate director of the Institute. For further information write to the Director, c/o dept. of mathematics, SJSC, 95114.

A traditional Crosby luncheon

Invitations will be in the mail next week for the traditional Sunday Crosby buffet luncheon at Del Monte Lodge.

Hostess for the event which is a mainstay of the Crosby week's social calendar at Pebble Beach will be Mrs. S.F.B. Morse, widow of the company's founder. Assisting Mrs. Morse will be Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gawthrop and Mr. Aime Michaud, company president.

Mr. Gawthrop, formerly of Lake Forest, Illinois, is the recently appointed chairman of the board of Del Monte Properties Company, succeeding Mr. Morse.

This year's Crosby, the 29th Annual, will be played from Jan. 22 thru Jan. 25 at Pebble Beach, Spyglass Hill and Cypress Point courses, with the final Sunday round at Pebble Beach.

Woman's Club Friday program

The monthly Fun on Friday program of the Carmel Woman's Club will be given this week by Mrs. Ashley Shaw.

Mrs. Shaw will describe the adventures of Caroline, Elise and Pauline, the three sisters of Napoleon Bonaparte. During the aftermath of the French Revolution they were placed in high positions by their domineering and ambitious brother.

Mrs. Myron Hayward, president of the club, will preside at the meeting which will begin at 2 p.m.

Local resident preserves old holiday custom

While some Carmel residents gather on Carmel Beach January 6 to watch their Christmas trees burn, Alice Ann Glenn invites friends to drop by her house and share holiday gifts.

Since moving to Carmel, she is continuing a tradition in her family to celebrate Epiphany Eve by inviting guests to exchange presents and sample international desserts.

Epiphany, also known as Twelfth Night, is, according to tradition, the night the Wisemen found Jesus in Bethlehem and brought him gifts.

Miss Glenn's Twelve Night get together is the perfect answer to entertaining during the busy Christmas season.

Alliance speaker

Roland Husson, newly appointed French Cultural Attache in San Francisco will be the guest of the Alliance Francaise on January 21.

He will speak in French at the Carmel Art Association and his topic will be "Paris Tomorrow."

Members of the Alliance and guests are invited to attend the program which will begin at 8:30 p.m. Refreshments will be served after the conference.

Bassinet set

Mr. and Mrs. Parle Blake of Carmel welcomed a son, John Parle this week.

Carmel residents Mr. and Mrs. Arie Van Wyk also became the parents of a son, John Lindsay.

Vacationers at Heavenly Valley

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bottaro of Carmel Riviera and their daughter, Cynthia spent the New Year's holiday skiing in Heavenly Valley.

Another visitor to the snow country was Douglas Sprague, executive director of the Monterey Y.M.C.A., who drove fifty boys and girls to South Lake, Tahoe for four days of skiing.

Mr. and Mrs. George Brehmer of Pebble Beach, Richard Hirschkind of Carmel, Bruce Banfield, William Gammons and Lawrence Calhoun, all of Pacific Grove also enjoyed a holiday in the snow.

Carmel residents take holiday trip to Santa Barbara

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Brown of Pebble Beach visited Santa Barbara this month.

Two couples from Carmel, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Eyre and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Brunn with their family also spent some time in the city.

Andre's Around

By Alda Jorstad

THE ONLY place that welcomes a kicker is a chorus line . . . A woman has three ways of meeting a crisis: Sue for divorce, have a good cry or rearrange the furniture.

To rearrange your present hairdo into the very latest style, join the throngs of smart women who have discovered Andre's Beauty Salon, Del Monte Center in Monterey (near Lucky's.) While there, inquire about Face-Lift, for "ageless beauty" (without surgery) — the complete skin care program in a single package. This superb product is available at Andre's, open 6 days (never on Sunday). Ample free parking. Call 372-3133. That's Andre's Beauty Salon, featuring "styles with a flair for women who care."

Judge to be Woman's Club speaker

Superior Court Judge Gordon Campbell will address members and guests of Carmel Woman's Club on Jan. 19 at 2 p.m.

Judge Campbell served as deputy district attorney for Monterey County and has had judicial experience as both Municipal Court and Superior Court Judge. In addition he has served on the Carmel City Council and has been a president of the Board of Trustees of the Carmel Unified School District.

Mrs. J. C. Hale will introduce the speaker. Pouring at the tea tables will be Mrs. Clinton Beckwith, Mrs. Curtiss H. Bradford, Mrs. Vernal A. Diggs and Mrs. James M. Price.

Farewell dinner

A farewell dinner will be given on Jan. 17 for Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Hess. They and their daughter Whitney are leaving Jan. 21 for Greenwich.

Mrs. Hess is the granddaughter of the late Sam Morse.

Hostess for the dinner will be Mrs. Anna Hess, Dennis' mother.

Dangers of smoking revealed

According to the March of Dimes, many medical reports have shown an association between heavy smoking and the birth of underweight babies.

Leader meeting at MPC tonight

The Monterey Peninsula Free University, anticipating a second semester after its auspicious beginning last fall with more than 50 "groups" and some 900 participants, ahs announced a meeting for prospective group leaders on Thursday, Jan. 15, 7:30 p.m. in Room H-105 (humanities building) at Monterey Peninsula College.

A group leader or "convener," according to Leonard Epstein, the MPC English instructor who originated The Free U locally, is defined as "a person who is knowledge-able on a subject – any subject – and owuld like to share his ideas and talents with others. He is also a person who realizes that the participants in his group – as well as he – may have something to teach."

Groups usually meet in private homes, once a week or more often. There is no enrollment fee, and leaders volunteer their time.

For further information, interested persons may phone 375-9821, Ext. 323, daytimes.

Jaycees seek young man for Distinguished Service Award

This year marks the 50th anniversary of the U.S. Jaycees.

The Monterey Peninsula Jaycees will host the annual Distinguished Service Award dinner where a young man in the community will be honored by the Jaycees for his participation and service in the community.

Nominations chairman for the last three years Ed Hulett, has announced that nominations are open. He states that any young man between the ages of 21 and 35 is eligible.

He does not have to be a Jaycee but must live on the Monterey Peninsula. Judging is based on participation, leadership, and involvement in fulfilling community needs on the Monterey Peninsula.

Last year the speaker at the Award Dinner was S.I. Hayakawa, who gave an interesting talk which was attended by more than 300 peqple. Dr. Gene England received the award.

Nominating forms may be obtained by contacting Ed Hulett at 373-3371, or they may be picked up at the Crocker-Citizens Bank, 439 Alvarado, the deadline for entries is Feb. 9, 1970.

Boy Scouts show gain

The Monterey Bay Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, now has a boy membership of 8,065 which is a 10 percent gain over one year ago.

The number of Cub Packs, Scout Troops and Explorer Posts now number 245, an 11 percent increase over the 220 units in the council a year ago.

The local council is among the 25 percent of the 52 councils in Region Twelve, which includes the western six states, to exceed their Boypower '76 goals, a program which began in January of 1969, aimed at extending Scouting to one third of all eligible boys in the nation.

The districts and their district chairmen and executives include: Roger Poyner and Lyman Grover, Peninsula; James Houseberg and Jay Chapman, Salinas; Ed Laughton and Ken Jones, Gabilan; Dick Logan and James Brown, San Benito; Dr. Lloyd Smith, Jr., and James Brown, Pajaro Valley; Jack Hecht, Jr., and Al Olson, Santa Cruz.

August H. Johnson is council president and Frank Buck is Scout Executive.

BofA small business report available

Where the small manufacturer is concerned, furniture and transportation equipment manufacturing are the most hazardous endeavors, while the lumber and food product industries remain relatively safe.

These were among the findings of a Bank of America study on the high-risk, high-reward world of small manufacturing.

"Bankruptcies are most frequent in manufacturing than either retailing or service business," according to the bank's periodical, The Small Business Reporter.

Copies of the report are available at any Bank of America branch.

Consumer Power

By Yvonne Earnst

January is one of my favorite shopping months.

It's the time of the year for one of my favorite consumer "coups" – clearance sales. From experience, I have learned to devote a large part of our family budget for January, February, July and August to genuine clearance sales. This the time of year when I buy most of the clothing for the entire family, from shoes to pajamas. It is the time fo the year when I shop in specialty shops and luxury stores, where I cannot afford to pay the regular prices.

I do, however, try to visit these stores between clearance sale months, so that I will be able to recognize a genuinely good buy when I see it. I just exercise strong sales resistance on those visits.

During the month of January, and again in July, it would even be advantageous for you to shop in other nearby towns after you have covered the stores in your immediate area.

But, before starting out, check the budget. You don't want to buy more than you can pay for without incurring credit charges that wipe out your sale savings. Even though I do not make a habit of allowing things I "charge" to stay on the books more than 30 days, thereby incurring credit charges, I will often stretch this rule in January and July and allow one month's credit charges if the sale savings are great enough to justify it.

If I charge items now in January, the closing date for "E" names usually being the fourth of the month, I will probably not receive the bill until Feb. 15.

If I pay the bill in full by the first of March, no credit charge is incurred. If I pay part of it hten, and the rest by the first of April, I will pay, as a rule, a 1½% credit charge. And this is my limit. If I have several accounts, I will pay off as many as possible in full, and carry only one or two over that extra month.

Get out paper and pencil, and figure out what is most advantageous for you.

If you have BankAmericard, and the stores where you shop accept it, by all means, use it. BankAmericard credit charges are figured on the "unpaid balance" rather than the full "previous month's balance." This can amount to quite a savings. For instance, if you charge $100 total to BankAmericard, and pay $50 the first month, the credit charge added the second month will be 75 cents. If you did the same thing with most other department store or general credit cards, the credit charge would be $1.50.

So, consult your budget, and set your spending limit. When you reach it, regardless of the temptation, it is best to stop shopping.

Next, take out a measuring tape, and take accurage measurements of each member of the family for whom you may be buying clothes, including yourself. (The shock may set everyone to dieting after all that holiday eating.) If there is a chance you may be buying shoes for someone who will not be along on the shopping expedition, note the current shoe size, and make a cut-out tracing the feet in a standing position.

Often, it is possible to "run interference" and check out availability of shoes in the proper sizes, and then bring the family back to try them on. But I often buy shoes for my children in large sizes than they currently wear, always buying the same width, but in progressively larger lengths. I know this is not considered ideal by shoes salesmen, but it works well when I stick to standard styles, avoiding stylistic features such as pointed toes.

And it is a great help to our budget to be able to buy children shoes at sale prices. I often buy better quality shoes than we could otherwise afford, and find that they usually last longer.

Keep a lsit of the size you buy for each child and notes on styles and colors so that you will not duplicate your purchases. You may think you will be able to carry this information in your head, but a little notebook is much more trustworth.

It is a good idea, for that matter, to keep a list of what you buy for each person as you go, so that you can keep such things as color combinations in mind.

Don't become so over-enthusiastic that you snap up purchases without checking them over carefully. As a general rule, there are no refunds on sale merchandise, so make sure that zippers work, that there are no objectionable snags, tears or soiled spots. If there are defects, decide whether or not it is worth it to you to correct the problem. If you don't mind replacing zippers, and know you will get around to doing it before the item is outgrown (I wouldn't), then you may decide to buy it anyway.

Be sure to read hangtags and labels for fabric content and washing instructions. For, if a washable item does not have a permanent press feature, it will probably never reach the cash register. Even if the style and color are tempting, I have finally built up my sales resistance on this point. It is no saving to me if I have to iron it regularly.

Of course, there are many things on sale this month other than clothing and shoes. There are stationery and gift items, Christmas cards and decorations. There are also household items of all kinds, furniture and appliances. But, don't be whisked along by "clearance sale fever" and buy any large item without thoroughly investigating competitor's prices. Also, check with consumer publications in the librayr to see whether or not the item in which you are interested has been rated. Even if it has not, you may up some ideas on juding good buys.

Now, are you ready to go shopping? Keep in mind that you are out this month searching for bargains. Try to make sure the sale items are genuine savings. "Special purchases" are sometimes bargains, and sometimes not.

'Cactus Flower' at Studio; 'Cactus Flower' at Regency; Both top entertainment

Last year the Peninsula was treated to the rare situation of haveng "The Lion in Winter" playing at the Circle Theater with Gertrude Chappell as Elinor and Roy Baxter as King Henry, and as a motion picture Cinema with Katherine Hepburn as Elinor and Peter O'Toole as Henry.

Now once again the Peninsula is fortunat e in having a movie and a stage play running at the same time.

"Cactus Flower," is playing both at Carmel's Studio Theater-Restuarant and at the Regency in downtown Monterey.

The "Cactus Flower" stage play at the Studio stars Suz Newell, Richard Klein, Marianne Wagner and Roger Parks.

The film stars Walter Matthau, Ingrid Bergman, and serves as an introductory vehicle for Laugh-In's Goldie HAwn, who for our money, walks off with the picture.

Of course, you indulge in an exercise in futility if you try to make a step-by-step comparison between the movei and the Studio's stage production.

On the Studio stage, the actors have no chance to redo a scene. A blown line, a missed cue, any error, is final. On the movie set, the scene is done and redone until it is perfect.

One thing about the movie – in some kind of unprecedented lapse, the producers have left most of Abe Barrows' dialogue intact. They've added some, but for the msot part, all of Burrows' great, funny lines are there. Those lines the movie writers have added are not althogether unfunny. At least they don't detract from the film.

The producers at the Studio have come up with a clever arrangement to handle the four scenes of the play. The doctor's office and his mistress's "pad" are on a revolving stage upon-a-stage, with the record shop on the left and the discotheque on the right.

The movie of course, has the advantage of latitude in this respect, but nothing is detracted by the intimacy of the Studio Theater.

In the stage play, each member of the cast turns in an excellent performance. In the movie, after you get by the top four, the rest become lost.

But the movie has Goldie Hawn, Ingrid Bergman and Walter Matthau.

Goldie Hawn, as Toni, is the deliciously dumb blond who is Matthau's mistress. Bergman, always the great actress, is superb as the dowdy dental nurse who becomes a lovely cactus flower. You can't say enough abuot Matthau, who is an actor's actor.

The "Cactus Flower" is still showing at the Regency in Monterey, and the stage production at the Studio plays weekends at 8:30 p.m., Sunday one hour earlier. A delicious dinner, too.

Try to see both "Cactus Flowers."

Movie Review

Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid – Paul Newman and Robert Redford are western outlaws whose day has passed. A comedy of anticlimaxes with superb photography, a folk-tale touch and a violent conclusion.

Camille 2000 – Radley Metzger's updating of a tale by Dumas the Younger emphasizes graphic sex acts. "The Lady of the Camellias" has been the favorite part of actresses for ages. At the Hill.

Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice – An irreverent social satire, slick in its trimmings and backgrounds with a sharp bite in its characters, dialogue and frank appraisal of modern marriage and mores. Golden Bough.

On Her Majesty's Secret Service – The new James Bond, George Lazenby, skiis and bobslees after the villainous chief of Spectre and takes his first plunge into matrimony with T.V.'s former Avenger, Diana Rigg. At the State.,

Support Your Local Sheriff – A western comedy about a reluctant sheriff who feels he must take the job to protect the town. It was a dull town until he takes over. The money-making sleepr of 1969. At the Grove.

Buona Sera, Mrs. Campbell – An enterprising Italian matron, Gina Lollobrigida, tries to cope with the sudden return visit of three WW II GI's, each of whom thinks he is the father of her daughter. At the Village.

John and Mary – Dustin Hoffman and Mia Farrow co-star in an off-beat romance, and they do a creditable job to make a good, "X" rated film. At the Cinema 70.

Take the Money and Run – If the Golden Age of Comedy is back, it's because of Woody Allen. This comedy, tinged with intellect, sometimes, brilliant, always, unpredictable, is about a Walter Mitty of the Underworld. At the Village.

Yours, Mine and Ours – Navy officer Henry Fonda, father of 10 motherless children, meets and marries widowed Lucille Ball, mother of eight, and the coalition of the two outsize families is a riot. At the State.

Viva Max – Peter Ustinov believes he can still control the Alamo, so, with 87 soldiers behind him, he shells the place with a barrage of words. Jonathan Winters helps with the comedy. At the Valley Cinema.

101 Dalmations – The sinister Cruella Daville plots to capture the 101 Dalmations in Walt Disney's delightful animated re-issue playing at Valley Cinema.

Stage Review

"Light Up The Sky"

The Circle Theater offers an hilarious look at the inside of show business in its latest comedy hit, "Light Up The Sky" playing Friday and Saturday nights at 8:30 and an hour earlier on Sundays.

The performance is directed by Zelma Weinfield and features Ed Shinbrot as a financier concerned about the "three-thousand bucks" he has sunk into an apparent "turkey."

"Cactus Flower"

"Cactus Flower," Abe Burrows' classic comedy masterpiece is now playing at the Studio Theater-Restaurant. The play is skillfully acted and cleverly directed and offers the broadest kind of farce in 15 scenes. Directed by Bob Evans, "Cactus Flower" plays weekends with an 8:30 curtain Friday and Saturday and a 7:30 curtain on Sunday.

An unheard of way to please a man.
Introduce him to a famous fragrance that hardly anybody in America knows about. Tabac Original™. It's Europe's most sought after line of men's toiletries. Because it has a husky, smoky fragrance that's not at all self-conscious. Everything a man needs to clean and groom and refresh himself is in the Tabac Original line. From shower soap on a rope to Hair Tabac to body talc. When American men discover it, it won't be unheard of for long.

PARTY PLANS . . .

by Phyllis Jervey

Fireplace Suppers

When the elements turn cold and rainy, as is usual during our Crosby Tournament, invite golfers and others to a cozy fireplace party!

We hope that "29 Crosby" will be bright and sunny, but in any event an informal supper cooked in the fireplace is great fun. Everyone helps with the meal preparation, consisting for the most part of combining savory foods in foil packets. The featured dish is individually done up for each person.

Getting the fireplace set up for cooking is simple, too, since manufacturers of barbecue grills now have models designed especially for fireplaces. These grills fit any fireplace and are used with charcoal briquets.

Line the firebox of grill with heavy duty foil, add briquets, sprinkle with starter and touch with a match. Be sure damper is open in chimney, although there is little or no smoke with a briquet fire. The foil serves two purposes, reflects the heat back into the food and later can be used to lift out the ashes.

A whole meal can be prepared in the fireplace, even dessert. Seved on a low coffee table or two with guests sitting around on hassocks, cushions, footstools or the hearth itself, it is a homey colonial type of intimate setting.

Let's start with a new shrimp appetizer which is glamorous and different. This is done under the kitchen stove broiler, as the fireplace will be busy with the main course.

Savory Buttered Shrimp

Two lbs. jumbo shrimp, fresh or frozen; 1 cup melted butter; 1 clove garlic, mashed; 2 T. fresh lemon juice and white wine, each; crushed basil and rosemary; dash of salt, ground peppercorns and Tabasco sauce.

If shrimp are frozen, thaw just enough to separate. Rinse shrimp in cold water, drain and place in boiling water. Bring to gentle boil and cook one minute. Drain and cool slightly. Remove shells and dark veins.

Form a pan large enough to hold shrimp from two thicknesses of heavy duty foil, turning up edges about one inch all around. Mitre corners so they hold firm. Place container on cookie sheet and add shrimp. Add the melted butter mixture, pouring half over shrimp to coat well.

Place under broiler 3 inches from heat and broil shrimp lightly. Turn them and spoon over rest of sauce and continue broiling, about 6 minutes in all. Baste with sauce several times. Put the shrimp in its homemade container on the coffee table with a basket of crisp French bread and melba toast rounds with plenty of paper napkins.

Oyster forks or plastic picks are used to spear these shrimply delicious deeply golden-pink party-starters. Guests dip the crusty bread in the sauce not letting a single drop go to waste.

Chicken Oregano

Two 4-lb. broiler-fryer chickens, cut in serving pieces; 4 stalks celery, chopped; 2 cans whole tomatoes, drained; 2 t. instant minced onion; 4 T. butter; 2 t. crushed oregano; salt and pepper; 8 squares heavy duty foil.

Lightly saute chicken in melted butter in two cast iron skillets. Remove chicken and put two or three pieces on each piece of foil. Add rest of items to skillets and cook briefly. Divide equally and pour over contents of each packet. Bring edges of foil together and seal with double fold. Place on grill for about 45 minutes, turning once.

Or you could have the following marvelous

Oriental Beef

Two lbs. round steak (3/4-inch thick), cut into serving size pieces for 8 servings; 4 T. vegetable oil; 2 cans (10½ oz. each) mushroom gravy; ½ cup sherry; ½ cup sliced water chestnuts; 4 T. sliced green onions; 4 T. soya sauce; 2 pkg. (9 oz., each) frozen whole green beans.

Pound steak with meat hammer or edge of heavy saucer in large skillet, brown meat in oil lightly. Pour off fat. Add remaining items, excepting beans.

Divide into 8 heavy foil packets. Proceed as above. Cook over low charcoal embers 45 min. Open packets carefully and add beans into each. Close foil packets again and continue cooking 15 min.

Cook plenty of fluffy white rice on kitchen stove and serve with either of these superb dishes. Or you could try this unusual combination:

Sweet Potato-Apple

Two cans apple slices or quarters, drained; 2 cans whole sweet potatoes; ½ cup lemon juice; ½ cup honey.

Cut sweet potatoes in half-inch slices. Place alternate layers of potatoes and apples in a foil broiler pan. Disposable foil broiler pans in two sizes are at most markets and variety stores. Pour over a mixture of honey and lemon juice. Place on grill and heat until steaming.

Poppy Seed Bread

Brush slices of white enriched bread with melted butter. Put together in loaf shape of heavy duty foil. Sprinkle with poppy seeds. Close foil and heat on back of grill for 15 minutes but watch so as not to burn. After serving, close foil to keep warm. You can do the same thing with sliced sour dough bread, but add mashed garlic, paprika and celery seeds to the melted butter.

As for Fireside Desserts, let's start with a very simple one: Put the contents of two cans of fruit cocktail, with rum or brandy added to a small amount of the syrup, on a large sheet of heavy duty foil. Seal edges with double fold. Heat on grill about 10 minutes. Pour over pound or angel food cake.

Hot Buttered Rum Peaches

Arrange canned peach halves, cut side up, in disposable foil broiler pans. Pour in juice 1/3 way up fruit. Fill each center with brown sugar, butter and rum. Or for those who prefer a less sweet dessert, just a bit of butter and plenty of rum will be more exciting and warming. Place on grill over a medium hot fire and simmer 10 min or until hot. Other canned fruits may be served this way . . apricots, pears, pineapple slices. Roasted apples-on-a-stick and roasted chestnuts are nostalgic childhood memories, still enjoyed today by all.

If you want a big olive wood salad bowl replete with our Peninsula's gorgeous greens, butter and red lettuce, tender spinach leaves, watercress, romaine and bibb, serve them with a very tart French dressing to which crumbled bleu or roquefort has been added to the last moment.

For the dressing use the best olive oil, white wine vinegar, dry mustard, crushed white or black peppercorns, salt to taste. To make this basic classic dressing into a Vinaigrette Sauce: add chopped hard cooked egg, capers, green olives and fresh herbs. Toss at last moment.

And what's more at this type of gathering, one tosses paper plates and cups and napkins into the fireplace. The foil packets go into the trash cans.

What, no dishes or glasses to struggle over as an unpleasant aftermath of a lovely evening? Absolute bliss. So all these hot-from-the-grill ideas are most welcome and serve eight, depending on hunger or preference.

Fly to the Orient in 1970

The year 1970 is the dawn not only of a new decade, but the birth of a new travel era.

It's the year of the Superjets winging across the Pacific, across the Atlantic, around the world, just under the speed of sound.

It's the year of Expo '70 in Japan, acclaimed a World's Fair surpassing all others.

It's bedroom views at sunset over Hong Kong, Ankor Wat and empty South Sea Islands.

Its sukiyake prepared by Geishas at your table and a Maharaja as your personal guide.

It's jungle night air where a lion's purr replaces a cricket's chirp, and it's tracing the steps Christ took 2,000 years ago.

Each of three major airlines serivng the Orient from the United States is prepared to handle an unprecedented traffic load, particularly to Japan for Expo '70.

Japan Airlines has prepared its new 747 jets to seat 20 percent fewer passengers than the plane was designed to hold. JAL feels the added comfort of its passengers will be compensation for the loss of revenue.

The Boeing Super jets purchased by JAL have all been finished in a blend of Japan's traditional culture and the most modern technology.

Kimono-clad hostesses bring refreshing o-shibori hot towels, tempting o-tsumami delicacies and fragile cups of warm aski.

Pan American, claiming to be the world's most experienced airline (and who's to gainsay?), features delicious meals prepared under the supervision of chefs from the famed Maxim's Restaurant in Paris.

Pan Am, as an airline, has flown countless millions of miles, and they guarantee each of their pilots has flown a minimum of one million miles.

The mighty Boeings of the Qantas V-Jet fleet cover 32 countries with a network of routes exceeding 73,000 miles, none of which are duplications.

Qantas stresses the open friendliness of the Australians, blended with an efficiency" . . . developed down under to keep you on top of the world."

These airlines, coupled with the convenience of travel arranged by American Express, examplify the epitome in speed, comfort and efficiency.

See your local travel agent for details of travel in the Orient and Japan's Expo '70.

FISH STORY--

There is something fishy going on between California and Florida.

During 1969, more than 200,000 pounds of tropical fish were carried in the bellies of National Airlines jets from Los Angeles to Tampa and Miami on the final leg of a trek from the Orient.

What makes the story even more fishy, however, is that approximately the same tonnage of tropical fish was flown from Tampa to Miami to Los Angeles. The obvious conclusion is that distant pools, as well as pastures, always appear greener.

Amateur icthyologists in Miami apparently have a preference for the Betta fish, a feisty finny specimen that is betta known as a Thai fighting fish. These are bred in Bangkok and when ready for export, they are packed in separate plastic bags for shipment. Each bag contains an oxygen capsule that will last just long enough for the long flight to Miami International Airport. The bags, incidentally, are strong enough to prevent the Thai fighting fish from fighting their way out of them.

Conversely the most popular fish that National carries away from Florida is a lover called platyfish. The platyfish comes in assorted colors ranging from black to irridescent and the male spends most of his life chasing a female around the tank.

The platyfish bear their young live. A box of a couple of hundred shipped from Tampa may contain another fifty or so by the time it reaches Los Angeles.

Apparently, either the fish have certain travel superstitions or the persons who ship them do. In no matter which direction they are directed they rarely travel on Tuesdays, Thursdays, or Saturdays and never on Sunday. They also prefer to travel by night.

Jobs for VN Vets

Recently discharged Viet Nam veterans looking for jobs are invited to visit the United States Veterans Assistance Center at 49 Fourth Street, California.

Gordon R. Elliott, Manager of the Veterans Administration Northern California Regional Office, stated that they have many openings for veterans with training in communications or electronics.

COSTUMES OF WALCHEREN — These lovely Dutch girls model typical costumes of their area, which feature stiffly starched, tatted caps. They are seen in Willis Butler's "Holiday in Holland," coming to the Sunset Auditorium on Friday, Jan. 16.

'Holiday in Holland' at Sunset

"Holiday in Holland," the Explorama presentation coming to the Sunset Auditorium tomorrow night at 8:15, is a production of Willis Butler, who will be at Sunset in person to narrate the color film.

The film starts in Amsterdam and its environs, including the cheese market at Alkamaar, the North Sea Canal, the art museums, with of course, the emphasis on Rembrandt.

Rotterdam is the next stop, with photos from the city's archives contrasting the bomb-damaged city of 1940 with the modern city of today. Rotterdam has the world's largest harbor, which is viewed from atop the Euromat.

Delft is a charming city with a 17th century flavor, and the film has a complete sequence on the production of authentic Delftwar, one of the world's finest ceramics.

The Enclosure Dike, built in 1932, sealed off the North Sea from the Zuider Zee to provide a 22-mile highway at sea.

After visiting the latest developments in reclaiming land from the sea, the film moves to The Hague, seat of the Dutch government, the miniature city of Madurodam and dinner at Holland's finest restuarant.

The journey ends, as must all things in Holland, with a visit to the world-famous Keukenhof Gardens during tulip-time. The visit shows the digging up of the bulbs in July, a bulb factory, and the tulpis in full bloom.

Tickets are available at Abinante's Music Store or at the box office on Friday evening.

'El Rallye Diable' to attract major rally drivers Jan. 24

"Registration blanks for the Pebble Beach Sports Car Club's third annual El Rallye Diablo are now in the mail," according to Rally master Tim Errington.

El Diablo is an all night Monte Carlo type event which attracts top flight rallyists from all parts of California.

The 14 hour plus competitive event will start from Del Monte Center on Saturday, Jan. 24 at 7 p.m.

"Although this event is a challenge to expert competitors, we have established a novice class for first time and inexperienced competitors which they should find interesting and not too difficult," Errington explained.

Further information is available by writing El Rallye Diablo, PBSSC, P.O. Box 94, Monterey, 93940, or calling Tim Errington, at 375-1902.

Lip-reading class

The Monterey Peninsula Unified School District is looking for deaf and hard-of-hearing adults who wish to develop lip-reading skills.

If there is sufficient interest, the adult school will initiate a program. The course would be taught by a certified speech and hearing therapist. The class would be held in the evening in one of the schools; time and place to be announced.

Persons interested in improving their lip-reading ability should call the special education department of the Monterey Peninsula Unified Schools, 372-7111, Ext. 351.

Mail registration for MPC spring term until Jan. 16

Several new evening courses will be offered at Monterey Peninsula College among the more than 150 scheduled for the spring semester.

Some of the new courses have been designed for the evening only. Others are courses heretofore offered only under the day-time curriculum.

One course – The History of Art in California – has been established to conclude with Bicentennial

Redwood for Pattee

Assemblyman Bob Wood (R-Greenfield) and Assemblyman Frank P. Belotti (R-Eurka) today announced they have jointly sponsored an Assembly Concurrent Resolution which will ask for the planting of a redwood tree (Sequoia Sempervirens) in the Capitol Park in the memory of the late Assemblyman Alan G. Pattee of Monterey County.

Alan Pattee had many friends, not only in Monterey County, but in the Legislature and the entire state of California, and the planting of a redwood tree will help keep the memory alive.

activities this year only, unless popular demand should dictate its continuance in later semesters.

Other new courses are Aviation 206 (Aviation Meteorology), Black Studies 152, (History of Contemporary Political Problems of Black Americans), Drama 270 (Film Survey), English 118 (The Drama as Literature), and History 136, (History of Russia from 1917 to Present).

Mail registration, now being conducted, will continue through Friday, January 16. In order to take advantage of this system, persons planning to enroll may request by phone (375-9921) or pick up at the MPC administration building a brochure of course listings containing official registration material. The application form may then be either completed on the spot and handed to a clerk or mailed in before the deadline date.

Dr. Keith Merrill, MP evening dean recommends registering by mail in preference to registering on campus on the evenings of Jan. 28, 29, and 30.

CHRISTMAS CHEER – One of the outstanding sights in Carmel during the Christmas season was this 25-foot holly tree in the front yard of Mr. Shirley Houghton on San Antonio near 12th street. The tree was gaily decorated with lights, and while the fir tree, a throwback to pagan days, is normally symbolic of Christmas, the huge holly tree, Christmasy in itself, provided a perfect setting for the lights. Houghton, in the center, turned on the tree for our photographer, and when the picture-taking was finished, began to remove the lights.

New medical benefits for Vets

New medical benefits for service-disabled war veterans have been authorized.

Veterans who ar totally and permanently disabled from service-connected causes can now receive out-patient care at Veterans Administration clinics for non service-connected conditions as well as for their service-connected conditions.

Out-patient care has, in the past, been available only for medical conditions that were service related.

The new rules, authorized in Public Law 91-102, dated October 30, 1969, entitle the war veteran in serivce-connected total disability status to medical care without the need for investigation as to the exact relation of a particular condition and the service-connected disability.

MIFS offers new Russian course

An intensive 15 week course in Russina, combining the elementary and intermediate programs, will be one of the features of the Monterey Institutate

Summer economics institute at SJS

A group of forty grants worth approximately $475 each will be available for secondary teachers wanting to participate in a summer Economics Institute for Secondary Teachers at San Jose State College.

Director of the Institute, Dr. Turley Mings, associate professor of economics at SJSC, reports that six units of advance college credit will be available for the six-week Institute which runs from June 22 to July 31.

"We are looking for teachers who have the desire to employ innovative teaching methods in the presentation of economics at the high school level. Our Institute will use a non-lecture approach in teaching teachers how to employ the latter method," explained Dr. Mings.

For further information, write to the Director, c/o the department of economics, SJSC, 95118.

of Foreign Studies' spring semester, scheduled to begin on Feb. 9, and limited to not more than 10 students.

The Russian language class, taught by a native-speaking teacher, will meet three hourse per day, five days per week for classroom isntruction, with an additional hour each day required in the language laboratory.

Emphasis in the course will be placed on conversation and pronunciation as well as the grammar and structure of contemporary Russian. Readings in prose and poetry will serve to give the students a broad introduction to Russian civilization.

Enrollment in the course is open to students and adults in the community who have successful college-level study or who show evidence of language aptitude. Sixteen semester units of credit are give upon successful completion of the course.

Additional details and application forms may be obtained by calling the Dean of Admissions at the nstitute or visiting the Admissions Office at 425 Van Buren, Monterey.

PG Center features '24 Artists' show thru January

The Pacific Grove Art Center is featuring "Twenty-four Artists" from Jan. 6 to Feb. 1, an exhibit of the Art Center Sales/Rental Gallery members.

Membership in the Sales/Rental Gallery is comprised primarily of Monterey Peninsula artists, but artists from the San Francisco Bay area and Sacramento Valley are represented.

The exhibit consists of Paintings, Sculpture, Graphics, and Batiks.

Gallery 1 is open from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and from 12:30 to 5 p.m. on Sundays, at the Pacific Grove Art Center, 568 Lighthouse Avenue, Pacific Grove, Ca. 375-2208.

Lithos at Eikon

The Eikon Gallery has on display 3 lithographs by Bruce Lowney.

These extraordinary prints are the product of years of study and dedication to the fine art of lithography (printing on stone.)

Lowney has a masters degree from San Francisco State College in art and received a Ford Foundation Grant in 1967. He presently is operating with a Louis Comfort Tiffany Foundation Award.

Phelan Awards set deadline for Mar. 13

The trustees of the James D. Phelan Awards in Literature and Art opened the 35th competition this week, offering two prizes of $1000 each to California-born writers, from 20 through 40 years old, of short stories and poetry.

In the last competition in which these fields were offered, a $1000 award was presented to Henri Coulette of South Pasadena for his book of poems The War of the Secret Agents.

The competition closes March 13, 1970. Applications and complete information may be obtained from the Phelan Awards, 57 Post Street, Room 602, San Francisco, California, 94104

Reviews for Young Readers

By Allene Fremier

Dazzle, by Diane Redfield Massie, tells in a gentle way the story of the perennial quarrel over who is Lord of the Jungle. Dazzle is a bird who thinks that his beauty entitles him to his honor, and also to restaurant service from the other birds. He is receiving all the honor and the service, until the lion hears about it.

He asks Dazzle why he thinks he is the Lord of the Jungle. Dazzle tells him that it is due to his exquisite beauty. With that, the lion opens his jaws and devours Dazzle's tail. Since without it he cannot be Lord of the Jungle, he joins the other birds in playing and singing. The soft pastel illustrations are lovely and the humor is just right.

Another picture book which tells a pleasant story is The Mystery of Rackety's Way, by Margaret Friskey. Rackety is the noisy brother of two other little rabbits, Hush and Shush. In spite of all the noise Rackety makes, the rabbits do manage to her strange noises in their meadow.

A people-house is being built. This in itself presents no problem, until they find out that the people have a big dog. Their solution is to move to the zoo, where the sign says "No Dogs Allowed."

With help from other animals, they use what they have that is special – their ears – and are able to hear the sounds of the zoo and then find their way to it.

A handy how-to-do-it book, with clear, concise directions, is Potato Printing, by Susanne Strose. I had forgotten how we used to make potato prints in school, and that it not only is easy and inexpensive, some very attractive prints can be obtained.

It tells how to cut the potatoe to achieve the best results, how to use color effectively and how to do basic designs, as well as more complicated ones. This could be used for home use or school.

An unusual book of poetry is The Real Tin Flower: Poems about the World at Nine, by Aliki Barnstone. The poetess was 11 when she wrote them.

The drawings, by Paul Giovanopoulos, fit the mood perfectly. Here's an example of one of her poems:

"Blue is Greece
Where fishermen tame their boats
and islands stand
like white monastery birds
on the Greek flag of spinning blue,
where the sky has few airplanes
floating like gods, and if one comes an angel drops a far banner."

Lots of new books have come in during the last few weeks, so come in and look around.

In the Western Hemisphere, one of the lowest lines of perpetual snow is found in the mountains of southeast Alaska covering peaks at altitudes of 4500 feet.

Hidden Valley

In these days of disgusting sights of umkempt hippies disfiguring our beaches and parks, it is most heartwarming and reassuring to attend such a concert as was given at All Saints Episcopal Church Sunday afternoon, Dec. 28 by young students of the Hidden Valley Music School – gifted young musicians from all over the United States with an age limit of 22 years.

The program was called Conciertos en Carmel and it was repeated Sunday night. I heard the afternoon concert. There were two conductors – John S. Waddell who conducted the 50-member chorus, and Dr. Michael Zearott who conducted the orchestra.

And to these two gifted musicians go the laurels for an exceptional afternoon of music.

Dr. Zearott could be called "Dr. Zealot," so enthusiastic his approach to music; so unbounded his zeal and so extraordinary his gifts. He has trained a group of young musicians in orchestral playing to a point not only of professionalism, but of rare sensitive performance. Although not large in numbers, the effects were tremendous.

With zest and authority began the Overture of Suite No. 3, in D by Bach. The players bent lovingly to their instruments and to the music they played. There was graduation of tone and nice inflection. The beautiful sonorities of the lovely "Air" were long drawn out in a smoth legato, the conductor holding his forces tightly together. In spritely contrast came the jolly Gavotte, – crisp, sparkling music followed by the Bouree. All was summed up in the Gigue, full of flourish and flounces.

Musical Comments

By RACHEL MORTON

Monteverdi's "Magnificat, a sei voci" was given a memorable performance by the Chorale. In 13 episodes many lovely vocal effects were achieved, notably the beautiful commingling of young voices in the "Quia Fecit" when one could almost feel the stained glass windows of a great cathedral around one. The two voices of the two women soloists were echoed by the hushed choir; there was exultation in the singing of the "Gloria patri" and there truly magnificence in the "Magnificat."

After intermission 10 players assayed a tonal atrocity by a Mexican composer, Revueltas, entitled "Homenaje a Federico Garcia Lorca," which I think means "Homage to Frederick Lorca." It was regrettable that such a fine program should be so rudely brought down.

But Dr. Zearott made up for it in a masterly performance of Beethoven's Concerto No. 3 in C minor. This young genius, not only conducted the orchestra, but played the Concerto as well, with never a separation of the two.

So sensitive was his playing that the instrumentalists relected his every mood and nuance. Young Dr. Zearott could become famous either as a piano virtuoso or as a highly gifted conductor.

Chamber Music

There was stormy weather the day of the Monterey Peninsula Chamber Music Society's concert in Sunset Auditorium last Friday evening. Trees were blown down and electricity was cut off in many Carmel areas.

But, notwithstanding, the half of the auditorium which had been set off for the occasion was completely filled with enthusiastic listeners.

Luckily the storm abated in time and there was no need for candlelabras and kerosene lamps which were brought in – "just in case."

A group of four fine musicians called the Houle Consort gave the program. The artists were George Houle, baroque oboe, (founder) Margaret Fabrizio, harpsichord, Marie Gibson, soprano and Anthony Doheny, violin, viola da Gamba.

It was most unfortunate that "At the request of the artists the names of the individuals pieces to be played are not listed,"

An audience like to be aware of what is going on by consulting a program. If printing is costly, or artists are prone to last-minute program-changing then at least there should be the courtesy of an announcement from the stage before each number.

All four performers were artists in their own right, but the shining light was Marie Gibson, soprano. Miss Gibson is well-known and well-beloved in Carmel because of her many successful Bach Festival appearances.

There is a sparkle in her very entrance, so ingratiating is her personality. She is a musician par excellence and her lovely voice is produced effortlessly and faultlessly. Her diction, whether in English, Italian or German is beyond reproach. In short, Marie Gibson is a great artist.

Next in order of merit was the superb playing of George Houle, oboist. His tone was fluid, smooth and luscious. His splendid musicianship kept all forces in a high artistic attainment. And it is fitting that the group should bear his name.

Margaret Fabrizio, an intriguing personality, brought forth from the tinkling harpsichord more volume and more color than one usually associates with this instrument.

She is a virtuoso player with rare sensitivity.

Unfortunately, the viola da Gamba is not often heard. Anthony Doheny brought out its rich, voluptuous tone tellingly in the ensemble numbers. In the "Sonata in F major" for violin and harpsichord by Locatelli the two performers won enthusiastic applause.

Three Bach arias: "Gerechter Gott," "Seufzer, Tranen Kommen Not," "Ich will auf den Herren schaun," were magnificently sung by Miss Gibson and accompanied equally well by the players.

Also outstanding was the performance of the Concerto in A minor for oboe and harpsichord by G. P. Telemann. Four essercizi by Domenico Scarlatti for harpsichord displayed florid, highly ornamented music brilliantly performed by Miss Fabrizio.

So fine was Telemann's Cantata for Laetare Sunday, "Du bist Verflucht," by all members of the Consort that the audience's loud acclaim brought a repeat of the last section.

The concert was well worth braving the elements and the Monterey Peninsula Chamber Music Society has added another feather to its cap. It is also to be congratulated for the new setting for chamber music concerts.

Salgo to hold Bach auditions

Auditions for singers and instrumentalists interested in participating in the 1970 Carmel Bach Festival will be held on Saturday, Jan. 24.

Sandor Slago, distinguished musical director and conductor of the Festival for the past fourteen years, will conduct the auditions in the Music Room of the Carmel High School from 10 to noon and from 2 to 4.

Those interested in being heard are asked to contact the Festival office, 624-1521, mornings from 9 a.m. to noon for an appointment.

Men and women with good choral backgorund are needed and are cordially invited to audition.

Chorus rehearsals will be held every Tuesday night beginning in February, the first date to be announced.

Kenneth Ahrens, organist, and choir master at Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Monterey and head of the music cepartment at Santa Catalina School for Girls, will serve as assistant to Salgo.

Letters to the editor

(Dudley Swim, a Chairman of the Board of National Airlines and a long-time resident of Druid Hills Ranch in Carmel, furnished the Pine Cone a copy of this letter he has addressed to his alma mater. We are publishing it as stating a divergent view of a problem concerning both Stanford and San Jose State College, whose Negro athletes refused to participate in sports against Brigham Young University in Utah.)

To the Board of Trustees of
Stanford University:

As a holder of two degrees from Stanford University, as a former president of the Stanford Alumni Association, as a donor to Stanford, and as a non-Mormon, I continue to be appalled by the policy of discrimination on grounds of religion recently proclaimed on behalf of Stanford University against Brigham Young University in intercollegiate relationships.

Wherever I move among Stanford alumni, I find acute dissatisfaction and indignation over this regrettable event – so often expressed in diversion of contributions from Stanford to BYU by Stanford alumni.

It now appears that this action was announced by the president of Stanford in the newspapers on November 12 without the subject even having been mentioned at the meeting of the Stanford Board of Trustees on the preceding day, November 11.

Let us hope that the Stanford Board of Trustees will demonstrate their sense of responsibility by disavowing this ill-advised action. It was possibly instigated by a small pressure clique of student-faculty activists as has been the case in numerous other humiliating accurrences at our Stanford in recent years.

The Stanford administration spoke when that administration should have been listening. There is so much that the Stanford administration can and should learn from the administration at BYU where exists the finest, cleanest, busiest, and happiest-appearing student body that it has been my privilege to observe in these current times. The youth programs on that campus are without equal in constructive achievement. A visit to that campus – something that Mrs. Swim and I have enjoyed several times this past year – provides a never-to-be-forgotten inspiration. Moreover, while so many other colleges have been goose-stepping to the permissive line of so-called "liberalism" and as a result deteriorating, BYU has been independently moving forward with vision, strength, and courage and brilliantly coping with, rather than succumbing to, the human problems of these times, especially among youth.

Instead of nipping at BYU, the administration at STanford should be seeking to accomplish what BYU so refreshingly maintains in fine and exemplary human conduct, far above the dreary level especially at those campuses which are socialist quagmires. At BYU, unlike so many schools, happily campus life does not embrace chain-walking to far left bigotry, homage to alien ideologies, disrespect for the American flag, arrogant, traitorous flaunting of enemy flags, championing of drug use, dedication to debauchery, and physical violence threatened or in fact – whether it be hoodlumism (such as raiding trustees' meetings) or murder.

Both Stanford and BYU are privately-endowed universities founded by those who played vital roles in winning and building our West. They can both be proud of their founders – in disregard of the snide attempts at disparagement through the years by "non-builders" at Stanford. Stanford should stand with BYU, together as great sister institutions, dedicated to preserving the integrity of higher education and those values which have made America great and American life an inspiration.

To BYU President Ernest L. Wilkinson and the Mormon Church is owed eternal gratitude for the courageous demonstration in BYU that great ideals of human integrity and noble principles in human relationships can be lived.

Sincerely,
/s/ Dudley Swim

Carmel Museum of Art
Carmel-By-The Sea,
Carmel, California

Dear Kent:

By this time you should have received notification that our Association has conferred upon your museum one of its coveted Awards of Merit for the year 1969. I wanted to take this opportunity to contratulate you on surviving one of the toughest competitions I know, and also on achieving so much for the benefit of the people you serve.

I don't think there has been a recent time when it was so essential that we have a better understanding of our heritage. In a society that seems to be characterized by rootlessness and estrangement, it is essential that we attain the kind of perspective that comes only from an understanding of our traditions and of the background of problems we face in our own time. Your museum has done an outstanding job in this regard. I congratulate you on it, and I urge your continued efforts to serve this great need.

With all best wishes!

Cordially,
/s/ William T. Anderson
Director

Cone:

In a way, pollution is good. If it gets bad enough it may make us too sick to fight useless, self-defeating wars, and the cost of fighting the pollution may be great enough to make economy-sustaining wars unnecessary.

Actually, the world will have enough conflict even without American participation. Our withdrawal from the Vietnam debacle will clear the way for a Russian nuclear strike to destroy China's threat to their ambitions, after which they will "adopt" European countries one at a time.

An American suffering from economic pains caused by ten years of stupidity spending will be powerless to prevent loss of Europe, and may then recognize that setting an example of what democracy could ideally do might have been preferable to trying to force its adoption with armed might.

If our civilization survives, it will not be because we adults or previous generations did anything intelligent about it, but because the youth just maturing care enough about survival to discard the greed and short-sightedness that have traditionally been used as guidelines in national and international relations.

Wood authors non-charter county equality bill

Assemblyman Bob Wood has introduced legislation that would give any non-charter county (such as Monterey) the same privilege as a charter county.

The measure, a Constitutional Amendment, would give the Board of Supervisors the option, if they so desire, to allow the Board of Education to appoint a County Superintendent of Schools instead of by election only as the law no reads.

The amendment, if approved by the legislature would be in the form of a referendum to the people and would appear on the November ballot.

If approved by the people this bill would not effect any candidate coming up for election in 1970, but would go into effect after the expiration term of any successful candidate elected in 1970, or upon the occurrence of a vacancy.

Wood stated he had received many requests from reliable groups asking that such legislation be introduced. Legislation with similar intent has failed six times in prior years, and in one instance the people of California turned down a proposal that would have given this right to the legislature.

Senator Donald Grunsky has agreed to co-author Wood's amendment.

Seat belts--fasten 'em correctly

Finally seeing the light, certain drivers now buckle up for both short and long trips but still have something to learn.

Seems that, points out the National Automobile Club, they don't do the thing right.

If you're in doubt about the correct way of buckling up, NAC reminds you that seat belts should be worn snug and low over the hips.

Editor charges modern churches capitulate to social pressures

"Many of the modern churches have capitulated to culture," a Washington, D.C., religious editor has charged.

In his editorial, Kenneth H. Wood chastised modern churchmen who seem to derive their ethical, moral and behavior standards from society rather than from God's Word. The church writer's views appear in the January 1 issue of the Review & Herald, weekly journal of the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Even many of the sect-type churches which once emphasized the need for holy living no longer accept the ethical and moral standards of the Bible. "Many have degenerated into social clubs," Wood observed. "When one visits them, he often cannot decide whether the wisdom of Freud or the goals of the men's luncheon clubs are more dominant in their life."

A church may meet all the outward signs of progress yet be a failure, he cautioned. A large congregation may even be a sign of spiritual deterioration. "After all, large 'congregations' – up to 100,000 people – are drawn to football stadiums, but the attraction is entertainment, not spirituality."

Wood suggests three things that can be done to sharpen the line between the church and the world.

First, the Bible should be restored to a place of respect and loyalty among church leaders and members alike. Second, the church must continually compare its values and standards with those of the Bible. Third, the minister must preach forthrightly what the Bible says on all aspects of life, even where it opposes or condemns various aspects of culture.

New computerized service success for park system

If the first day is any indication, the California Department of Parks and Recreation's new computerized campground reservation system is going to be a resounding success.

Parks and Recreation Director William Penn Mott Jr. reports that at the completion of the first full day of business Jan. 5, there were 9,350 campsite reservations taken at the various Computicket outlets throughout the state for a total of $58,367.

Mott noted that the pattern of reservations is following that of the last two years when reservations were made by mail directly to the parks. Coastal parks, particularly those in the southern part of the state, are getting the heaviest pressure.

The new computerized campbround reservation system will give a tremendous break to the prospective camper, Mott said. Now, when a park is reserved for a particular date, the camper can ask for and get immediate information about different dates or about other state parks campgrounds.

Mott urged campers to keep in mind that the inland areas, northern coastal and redwood parks, and mountain parks also offer outstanding vacation and camping opportunities. They traditionally get less pressure than the southern coastal parks, and often have spaces available when these parks are filled.

A list of state park campgrounds for which reservations can be made is available at any of the seven outlets in the Bay Area and the Sacramento area. For information about the nearest outlet, call (415) 771-3905.

If there is no Computicket outlet convenient, reservations may be made by mail to the Department of Parks and Recreation, P.O. Box 2390, Sacramento 95811.

Mail order reservation forms are available at any state park office, automobile club offices, many state buildings, and at the Department's headquarters in Sacramento, 1416 Ninth Street.

Christian Science Radio Program

"Freeing Relationships From Envy" is the title of the Christian Science radio program to be heard this Sunday on the series "The Bible Speaks to You." It will be broadcast over stations KGO at 7:15, KRML at 7:45 an KDON at 8:45.

Tax panel in Salinas Jan. 20

As a public service to the community, Salinas Valley-Monterey Peninsula Chapter of National Association of Accountants will present a panel on current tax problems.

The meeting will be held Jan. 20 at the Towne House located at 808 N. Main St., Salinas. The social hour will begin at 6 p.m. with a buffet dinner at 7 and the program at 8. Reservations are required by Jan. 17 and can be made by notifying James Jeffers at P.O. Box 146, Salinas, or by telephoning number 422-8006 in Salinas.

Members of the panel will include Ron Pacheco of the Internal Revenue Service.

Pacheco will point out the highlights of the 1969 Revenue Act and their future impact on the individual tax return. He will also show a short film on the filing of individual tax returns.

Oscar L. Donaldson, Jr., district manager of the Social Security office in Monterey County will stress the Social Security law changes for 1969 and how the general public is affected.

Jerald D. Boyd of the CPA firm Kasavan and Pope, will explain how new tax laws affect both individuals and corporations.

'Quiet Day' at All Saints' on January 22

An Ecumenical Quiet Day will be conducted by The Right Rev. Kilmer Myers, Bishop of California, on Thursday, Jan. 22, from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at All Saints' Episcopal Church, Lincoln & 9th, Carmel.

Sponsored by the Churchwomen of All Saints: Church for the Monterey Episcopal Deanery, this Day of Quiet is being set apart for all interested men and women as a day of spiritual refreshment and inspiration, to be spent in reading, prayer, and meditaitons led by Bishop Myers. Lists of suggested readings and reading materials may be secured through the Church office.

Participants are asked to take their own sack lunches, and coffee and dessert will be provided by the Churchwomen. No reservations are necessary. Housewives and professional men and women are welcome to attend all or a portion of the Day, as their time permits.

For further information, please call Mrs. Peter Sherman, President of All Saints' Churchwomen, 624-8624.

Christian Science Bible Lesson

The Lesson-Sermon to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday is on the subject of "Life," with the Golden Text from Psalms: "The Lord commanded the blessing, even life for evermore."

The first religious tenet of Christian Science from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, is included in the Lesson-Sermon. It reads, "As adherents of Truth, we take the inspired Word of the Bible as our sufficient guide to eternal Life" (p. 497).

The public is welcome to attend all Christian Science services. First Church of Christ, Scientist at 6th and Monte Verde sts. holds Sunday services at 11 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Census survey

The monthly survey of employment and unemployment conducted by the Bureau of the Census will be made in this area during the week of Jan. 18.

Households to be interviewed here are part of a scientifically designed sample of the U.S. population. The survey statistics are collected for the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Information collected in Bureau surveys can be used only to determine statistical totals, and facts about each person and family are kept completely confidential by law.

Interviewers who will visit the sample households in this area are Mrs. Ann Bowman and Mrs. Ruth F. Lopp.

City acceptance of Carmel Art Museum set to go on municipal ballot Apr. 4

By GUNNAR NORBERG

Next month – the date is Feb. 4 – may determine whether or not the Carmel Museum of Art survives.

Feb. 4 is the date of the next regular City Council meeting, and that is the date when the Council will decide whether or not to put on the ballot a proposition in which voters would be asked at the next city election whether or not they want the Council to take over the operation of the Carmel Museum.

Did you visit the Carmel Museum of Art during the two years when it was open to the public on Dolores street near 7th, in the old Wells Fargo bank building? Did you get a feeling, an understanding of the Old Carmel, upon which the edifice of modern-day Carmel is erected? If you did, you will not want to see that Museum die.

The people who poured personal funds into the Museum when it first opened do not feel that they can continued to bank-roll the operation. In fact, last fall, they decided they could no longer afford to do so. But what they started, the people of Carmel – today and tomorrow – will surely thank them for having begun, for it was the beginning of an effort to record and to retain for posterity, some of the meaning of the original Carmel.

While the emphasis of the Museum was upon the original artists and the original art, there is also the important literary heritage to which little attention has been paid, but which could also be recovered and catalogued in a city-operated museum.

Apart from the recovery and the recording of Carmel's past, which can be of overwhelming importance the old bank building in which the Carmel Museum is located could also provide the city with the imporatant vault storage which it presently has nowhere else, and thus allow it to accept gifts which it has not, until now, been able to safeguard against dangers of fire and theft.

Again and again, the city's Cultural Commission refused to accept the proferred gift of some 500 autographed first-edition books written by authors who had worked lived in Carmel, when they were offered by the late Bert Heron, former mayor and book dealer. And the reason for the refusal was the lack of secure storage for valuable objects. Acceptance of the Carmel Museum and the building in which it is housed, could provide the kind of protection for valued gifts – whether artistic or literary – which the city should have.

At last week's Council meeting, the decision was made to meet with Museum trustees to determine just what the City would receive if it were to take over the Museum, and just what obligations it would assume. If both sides of the Museum ledger should prove acceptable, the City Council would then order placed on the municipal ballot next April 14, the question as to whether or not the City should take over the Museum and continue its operation on a permanent basis.

While the City Council itself has full autority to take over, or to establish, a City museum, Council members decided at last week's meeting that they would not exercise that right unless voters at next April's election, decided that they wished them to do so. And so – it is up to you – first to attend the February 4th meeting of the City, to try to see that the Council does indeed put the Museum issue on next April's ballot, and then, again, it will be up to you in April, to see that enough people bother to go to the polls, to decide the Museum issue favorably.

Often city fathers have great difficulty trying to maintain the intent of all the intangibles which make up the great Carmel tradition, and often because present-day residents, even though they have been drawn to Carmel by elements of that tradition, do not know in any precise way just what that tradition was.

When you go to the Golden Bough theatre, do you know that the man who built that – and the original one on Ocean avenue – was one of the first Americans to establish a world-renowned community theatre. His name was Edward G. (Ted) Kuster.

And that next door to today's Golden Bough, once lived two of the greatest writers America has ever known. They were Sinclair Lewis and William Rose Benet, who once "batched" there.

And when you visit Carmel's city-owned Forest Theatre, do you know that you are seeing one of the first such community outdoor theatres in America?

Founded in 1910, it was the place where a Jack London play was first seen, and that Jack London himself was a member of the producing group? The play was "The First Poet." And it was there too that Sydney Howard's first play was presented – "The Sons of Spain." Later he won the Pulitzer prize for his "They Knew What They Wanted."

Also at the Forest Theatre, the first play by John Patrick was presented. It was "The Glory Trail." Many years later, Patrick's "Teahouse of the August Moon" won him a Pulitzer prize.

Carmel was also the place where the great Lincoln Steffens wrote his famous "Autobiography." And, of course, it was also the place where the distinguished poet, Robinson Jeffers, spent all of his creative years, and where his play, "Tower Beyond Tragedy," had its world premiere.

JAMES A. STEWART
HEART FUND
CAMPAIGNER

Stewart campaigns for Heart Fund

James A. Stewart, Monterey insurance executive, has been appointed chairman of the business division of the 1970 Heart Fund campaign for the three counties of Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Benito.

His selection was announced jointly by Don McAnaney of Salinas and Judge Charles S. Franich of Santa Cruz, general co-chairmen of the regional Heart drive to be held in February.

The campaign division headed by Stewart will include hundreds of businessmen in communities through three counties.

"It is our goal to recruit enough workers to give every business firm, small and large, the opportunity to contribute to the fight against heart disease, which has always been the special health enemy of the successful businessmen," he said.

LAst year, Stewart, an agent for State Farm Insurance Company, was Heart business chairman for Carmel.

Stewart's major responsibility will be to recruit leaders in all major communities of the three counties, who will in turn enlist volunteers to conduct solicitations of downtown business offices, stores, professional buildings and shoppings centers to reeeive Heart Fund contributions.

Krips, S.F. Symphony in all-Beethoven Los Altos concert

Maestro Josef Krips will lead the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra in an all-Beethoven orchestral program when the orchestra performs the third concert in the Foothill College Los Altos Series on Jan. 24.

Krips, the orchestra's conductor and music director, will be repeating the program performed at the Opera House during the first week of subscription concerts in December, opening the San Francisco Symphony's celebration of the Beethoven Bicentennial Year. Beethoven's Overture to "Egmont," and the Second and Fifth Symphonies, are scheduled.

Two other concerts in the Los Altos Series will be adding to the celebration of the 200th anniversary of Ludwig van Beethoven's birth. On Feb. 7, Maestro Seiji Ozawa, the Orchestra's conductor-elect, will lead a performance of Symphony No. 4, among other works; the program for May 2, featuring pianist Patricia Michaelian with Maestro Krips conducting, is All-Beethoven, with a performance of the Overture to "Coriolanus", Piano Concerto No. 1.

Ticket information for the January 24 All-Beethoven concert, and the six remaining concerts in the series, is available by contacting the San Francisco Symphony-Los Altos Committee, Mrs. Louis A. Roselaar, chairman, P.O. Box 806, Los Altos, telephone 322-5525.

February First

Closed from Feb. 1 thru 15th

When's the last time you got goose bumps when they played the Star Spangled Banner?

It's been a while, right?

Well, then you're like a lot of us.

It seems that many of us are too grown-up to get excited about things like the Star-Spangled Banner any more.

You could almost say that patriotism makes us feel embarrassed.

Besides, it's hard to really feel patriotic when you hear so much about how this country is falling apart.

But, of course, America still has a Bill of Rights.

And free elections.

An incredibly high standard of living.

And a free enterprise system that lets you hitch your wagon to any star you want.

And plenty of other things you can't find anywhere else in this world.

Know what? Looking at it that way, America deserves a lot more credit than it's been getting.

One of the best ways to give this country the support it deserves is to buy U. S. Savings Bonds.

They strengthen the country so that it's better prepared to solve its problems.

And they happen to be one of the best ways to provide for your own welfare.

The interest is exempt from state and local income taxes. And you don't have to pay Federal tax until you cash your Bonds.

Buy U. S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Or at your bank.

It'll give you a good feeling.

And a perfect excuse for getting goose bumps the next time they play the Star-Spangled Banner.

If they're lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace 'em.

Report From RLS

Filled with the holiday spirit after two weeks of Christmas parole the RLS student body reported back last Sunday.

The new academic building, latest structure on the Stevenson campus, will be occupied beginning Friday. The facility has been under construction for the past four months and has a compliment of 16 classrooms, a study center and 14 teacher conference rooms. Anxiously awaited, the academic building will complete 4/5 of the five year plan inaugurated in 1964 by school president Robert U. Rickleffs.

"What will become of the old academic buildings?" is a question not infrequently asked at RLS.

The answer is that campus clubs, a ceramics class and the wrestling team will occupy some of the rooms vacated in this Fridays exodus to the new academic building.

The Gnomes, the service club at RLS, introduced 22 new members at intermission time for their annual all-school dance on Saturday, Jan. 10.

Thirteen seniors and two faculty members joined seven underclassmen during the induction routine which followed the introductions by old members.

Seniors selected were Bruce Burrell, Willis Cook, Tim Donahoe, Robert Galvin, Matt Haynes, R.C. Johnson, Hok Leung, Brent Lloyd, Ken Mahan, John Reilly, John Sharon, William Smith, Allan Yates.

Juniors and sophomores chosen were Roger Birr, James Coonan, Pierre D'Avenas, Mark Dirickson, Don Dormer, Mike Morel and Richard Bullock respectively.

Admiral Harold Pullen, chairman math department and Mr. Dave Martula, soccer coach, were the faculty honored by the Gnomes.

The dance, one of the featured social events at RLS, was held in Reid Hall with a large number of young ladies from Santa Catalina School as guests. The band was "Catharsis" and their music delighted all present.

Scott Bullen, the Gnomes president, was assited by Dave Haynes, James Schaeffler, and Bruce Avery in the planning of this dance.

Rallye practice at La Playa Hotel

In preparation for their third annual El Rallye Diablo, the Pebble Beach Sports Car Club's program for their January 19 meeting is to be a rally clinic. The clinic is to be held immediately following the 8 p.m. business meeting at the La Playa Hotel in Carmel.

"The program will consist of discussing how to participate in a rally, a short practice rally and an additional question and answer period," stated Jeff Risdon, Program Chairman. "Everyone who is interested in sports cars or in rallying is invited to attend," Risdon continued, "and it is a particularly good way to find out what rallying is all about."

The program will provide practice for both entrants and workers for the club's upcoming El Rallye Diablo. Jan. 24 will be the third running of this all night Monte Carlo type event which has attracted entries from all parts of California.

Further information is available by writing El Rallye Diablo, PBSSC, P.O. Box 94, Monterey, 93940, or by calling Tim Errington, at 375-1902.

Vandalism toll

Vandalism in California's 17 national forests caused damage totalling $353,235 in the 1968-69 fiscal year, the regional office of the U.S. Forest Service here has just reported.

This sum would cover the cost of a new 100 unit campground with paved roads, new tables, stoves, restrooms, and a water system that would accomodate 500 campers at one time or 6,000 persons in a summer season, the Service estimated.

More than 1,000 Forest Service recreation sites were "purposely damaged," including campgrounds and picnic grounds, restrooms, stoves, tables, information signs, boat ramps, vista points and swimming facilities, the Service said.

"All Forest Services in the state are increasing law enforcement activities to offset this rising trend in vandalism," said Regional Forester J.W. Deinema.

In 1910, the greatest oil gusher in this country came in just north of Maricopa in Kern County.

Glen Campbell is definite 1970 Clambake starter

PADRE SPORTS

By Hal Gann

Carmel High's defending cahmpion MTAL Varsity Basketball team downed Pacific Grove, 76-69, Friday evening in the first league outing of the season.

(Next Padre Sportcast will be a recap and interview program of the Friday evening at-San Lorenzo Valley game, during a Monterey Bay League Broadcast, Saturday evening at 7 over KRSA-FM, 100.7)

The Padres were never behind against the Breakers, enjoying quarterly leads of 22-16, 42-35 and 59-52, and one time enjoying a 14-point margin.

Mark Spindler had a great first half, registering 17 points, and grabbed many rebounds and set up many scoring drives. He finished as high-point man with 22, and was closely followed by Pete Shaw's 19. Shaw who is spelling the great Bruce Winkler this year, was good on the boards and sharp on his southpaw jump shot from outside.

Kevin Cunningham, the little junior playmaker, registered 16 as he did a good job setting up the plays fom his guard position, and Carmel's 1-2-2 zone press defense proved effective. Four of five Padres hit in double figures with Jeff Canepa scoring 10.

Hollister and Palma this year appear to be th teams to beat for the League crown, but new basketball head coach Dick Charles has a pretty solid Padre team, a better than average quintet for rebounds, and with two or three performers getting "the hot hand," they will have the capability of downing the Haybalers ro the Chieftains.

There are only two seasoned veterans from last year's championship team — Spindler and Steve Taylor who is half his peak efficiency due to shoulder injury that is slow in responding to healing — the muscle that enables him to raise his right arm is not reconnecting properly.

Doug Aversano and Terry McGowan paced Pacific Grove scoring with 18 and 17 points.

The Carmel Junior Varsity bowed to the invaders, 61-43.

S.F. Boat Show huge success

Brisk attendance over the weekend at the 28th Annual San Francisco National Sports and Boat Show, which continues through Sunday, Jan. 18, indicates a ecord run again this year.

Keen interest was centered around the Lakester, a combination baot and auto; the Concorde 40, "Flagship" of the show; all-terrain vehicles, including the Spectra I Hovercraft.

Grunsky bill to ban drilling on San Luis Obispo coast

State Senator Donald L. Grunsky has introduced legislation to expand an existing sanctuary prohibiting oil drilling along the coast of San Luis Obispo County.

Grunsky's action followed Monday's decision by the San Luis Obispo County Board of Supervisors to support the drilling ban. Grunsky had proposed carrying the legislation last year after successfully authoring legislation to protect Monterey Bay in Monterey and Santa Cruz Counties.

The legislation introduced will protect all of San Luis Obispo County and in addition prevent hazardous core boring used in the exploration for oil and gas deposits in submerged tidelands.

Presently a portion of San Luis Obispo County is protected in a sanctuary running from a point in the Cayucos State Beach Park on the north to the Pismo Beach State Park on the south.

Grunsky said, "I have been impressed with the overwhelming correspondence to my office indicating broad support for a ban on drilling. This enthusiasm and support coupled with the resolution from the Board of Supervisors will be invaluable in gaining legislative approval of this bill."

'Bloody Alley' freeway bids asked by state

Bids are being called on construction of nearly 12 miles of four-lane freeway on new alignment for Route 101 in Monterey County by the California Division of Highways.

The project is the final link in implementing the Division plan to construct or widen Route 101 to four or more lanes between Los Angeles and north of Healdsburg in Sonoma County.

A total of $10,026,500 is available for the construction, which will run from San ARdo to San Lucas.

This work will be on new alignment, primarily west of the Salins River and is planned as an ultimate six-lane facility.

The proposed project, on which bids are to be opened March 4 in Sacramento, includes realigning a half-mile of Route 198, from the new Route 101 alignment to 0.5-miles east of existing Route 101 near San Lucas.

Interchanges will be provided at Lockwood-San Lucas Road and Paris Valley Road (both county roads), and also at Route 198. Paired freeway bridges will be constructed across the Salinas River, about a mile south of San Lucas.

Bids will be opened March 4 in Sacramento, and a total of 465 working days are allowed. This would provide for completion early in 1972.

Of the total funds available for construction, Southern Pacific Railroad is contributing $26,500.

In another Monterey County project on which bids are being called, existing roadside and overhead sign panels will be removed at locations on Route 1 and 68 in and near Monterey, Seaside and Sand City.

The Route 1 location is between 0.6-mile south of the Carmel-Pacific Grove Highway and 0.8-mile north of the Ord Village Overhead. On Route 68, the work will take place between Route 1 and 0.7-mile east of Route 1.

Wood meets with local educators

Assemblyman Bob Wood met last week with the representatives of vocational education from Monterey and Santa Cruz Counties. Present vocational education bills were discussed and possible ways which these might be improved upon in the coming legislative session.

The following men were in attendance:

Gordon Ray, Director, Vocational Education, Salinas Union High School District,

Dr. Jack Taylor, HUMRO, Presidio of Monterey,

Stephen James, Dean, Vocational-Technical Education, Monterey Peninsula College,

Richard Force, Superintendent, Gonzales Union High School District,

Steve Saporita, Vice Principal, King City High School,

Alden Phillips, Coordinator, Occupational Education, Monterey Peninsula Unified School District,

Dr. Larry Edler, Santa Cruz Office of Education, and Norman Berdan, Hartnell College, Salinas.

With Bob Wood In Sacramento

Although my memory isn't too good, wasn't there something in our high school physics book which quoted some scientist as saying "no object can freeze when placed on a body of moving water?"

Last Monday night I found out this statement is wholly untrue.

I slept on my second-hand boat, moored on the Sacramento River (which is certainly a moving body of water), and I darn near froze to death. I think the average mean temperature that day in Sacramento was 41 degrees.

My wife Betsy came up the next day and we moved to a motel and I had a chance to thaw out.

However, I now have a far greater respect for Admiral Byrd. I think he was the explorer whose boat became stuck in the ice somewhere near the South Pole for several months and he and his men still managed to survive. I feel I now have a little in common with the late admiral.

I came face to face with the generation gap the other night when I returned home from Sacramento. Out teen-age daughter happened to notice in the local paper where Senator Grunsky and I introduced a bill to give the local government complete jurisdiction over a rock festival or any other gathering that contemplates bringing together thousands upon thousands of people into our county, or into any other county.

Her remark was: "My gosh, Dad, what's the matter with you? Are you getting so old you don't like music anymore?"

For a minute I was speechless. Maybe it was because her Mother and I have always enjoyed good music and still enjoy dancing to good music although I notice the length of time between such occassions becomes farther and farther apart.

I can't help but feel that we as parents are going to have to explain as best we can that a rock festival sponsored by a profit-motivated group, attended by thousands who are mostly migrants and strangers to our county, is far different from a well-organized music festival where the sole purpose of the gathering is the appreciation of music.

By the sheer weight of numbers alone, for rock festival purposes or any other purposes, huge crowds become unmanageable and no parent wants to expose his son or daughter to the dangers involved.

The Woodstock, New York and Altamont, California rock festivals proved beyond a doubt that the moral dangers involved are far greater than the actual danger of being trampled by an overburdonsome crowd.

Out of respect to the large numbers of our young people who honestly would like to attend a music festival for appreciation of music only, I do think the interest shown will help make many of us (including some lawmakers) realize that there may be a need for musical festivals that could be held on a smaller scale, under good management, in areas provided for gatherings, such as open-air or closed stadiums, where music is the sole objective.

However, sometimes we as parents are going to have to stand up and be counted and I personally feel this is one of those times. Our children may not appreciate our stand until years later, but when the end results of such a huge gathering begin to penetrate their young minds, and the day comes when they have children of their own, I think the majority of them will thank us for our more mature approach to the problem and the stand that most of us parents are taking.

Enough for now . . .

BOB WOOD

Mrs. Cutler 1970 MPVS president

"Cooperation and Communcation will be my motto for M.P.V.S. this year," stated Mrs. S.Y. Cutler as she accepted the president's gavel during the opening meeting of the year.

Mrs. Wendell Coates, retiring Vice President, called the business meeting to order Jan. 9 in the Monterey U.S O, following a 10 o'clock coffee hour.

She was assisted in installing the new officers by Mrs. J. L. Farrow.

In addition to Mrs. Cutler, those presented were Mmes. Joseph Richardson, vice president; Howard Mealey, recording secretary; Miss Marion Ely, corresponding secretary; Mmes/ R.C. White, treasurer. and Avery Tompkins, parliamentarian.

Standing committee chairmen, introduced were Mmes. Wm. F. Pratt, finance; George H. Macy, thrift shop; G. G. W. Hughes, membership; Carl Ristau, nominating; Archer M. Allen, projects; Gilbert Kinney, office; J.B. Farrion, hospitality; F. H. Watson Jr., publicity; James Underhill, courtesy; and Margaret Mann, historian.

Mrs. Hughes, membership, introduced Mrs. W. Schallerer as a new member and Mrs. Ruth Albee and Mrs. P. H. Sunnes as former members, reinstated.

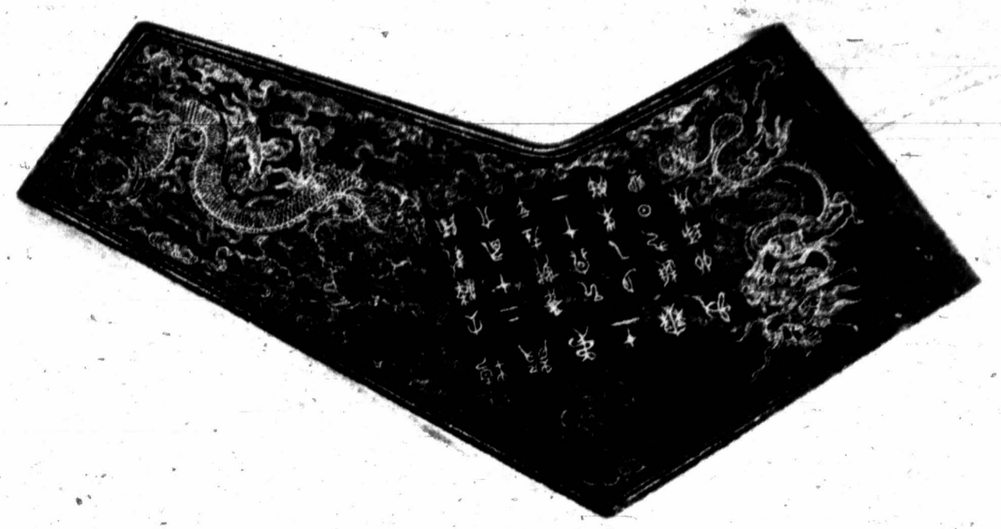
She reported that dues must be received by Jan. 15 in order to be included in the new membership lsit; and to mail a stamped, self-addressed envelope with the checks. Membership now stands as 122 active and 33 associate members.

Mrs. George Macy read the revised rules for the Thrift Shop, "Our number 1 project," reiterated the procedures for sales personnel, and introduced Mrs. Rosa Richardson, as her assistant.

A request from the Chidlren's Home Society for the shop proceeds from the first two weeks in March, was granted. Members were reminded that this group were the first recipients when this practice began.

Mrs. Archer Allen discussed possible projects for the year, and called on the membership for suggestions. It was voted to continue the popular Spring Garden Tour again this year.

Mrs. Cutler closed her meeting by announcing that there would be no generation gap in the organization. If each member would realize that it is impossible to lead without help. She also announced that she would be available for phone calls on week days until 5 p.m.



MUSICAL STONE — This large slab of jade is one of a set of twelve graduated in size representing the Chinese musical scale. It is the one used to sound the eleventh note, called wu-i, and corresponding to A-sharp. On one side an inscription in large character gives the exact date of the completion of the carving and the name of the pitch. On the other side is a long and somewhat pompous poem by the Ch'ien-lung emperor linking the role of music to harmony in the kingdom. The calligraphic style in which both inscriptions are engraved originated more than 3000 years ago. Each character is filled with gold paint and stands out vividly against the dark green surface of the jade. Besides the inscriptions both sides are decorated with two dragons chasing the flaming pearl in a setting of clouds. Here the pearl coincides with the suspension hole of the stone. The jade is an item in the Avery Brundage collection now on display at the Carmel Museum of Art in connection with the Monterey County Symphony Guild exhibit. ORDINANCE NO. 187 C.S.

AN ORDINANCE PROVIDING FOR UNIFORM STANDARDS OF DRIVEWAY ACCESS

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA DOES ORDAIN as follows:

Section 1. That Ordinance No. 187 C.S. Section 3.2(c) is amended to read as follows:

(c) Driveway Access — Each lot of less than 2 acres in area shall have a minimum of 40 feet frontage on a public road, and said required frontage shall provide usable and practical access to the building site. The grade of the sloped portion of a driveway providing access, measured along the center line, shall not exceed 10% in the first and last 5 feet, or 25% in the intervening distance. The driveway profile shall be constructed so that automobiles can safely and conveniently traverse it, and should provide a smooth transition between grades. A transition shall be constructed utilizing a vertical curve of 30 feet or longer where the change in grade is 5% or greater. A variance in grade may be granted by the Building Inspector after submission of plans by a registered civil engineer, and after approval by the City Engineer, considering safety, drainage and utility. The geometry of the driveway within the public road right of way shall conform to City standards.

Section 2. That Section 1209(g) is amended to read as follows:

(g) No driveway shall be constructed upon the sidewalk area, park strip, or street, except in compliance with a permit issued by the Street Department. Such permit may impose conditions consistent with standards of safety, drainage and utility, and shall state the grade level at which the driveway shall cross over an existing, or future curb or sidewalk. Where no curb and/or sidewalk is presently in existence at such grade, the Street Department permit may allow the driveway surfacing to start at the edge of the present street surfacing and follow the existing contours of the ground in the Public Right of Way, or may permit only such cut or fill as may be necessary for the property owner to gain access to his property. The grade of the sloped portion of the access route measured along the center line shall not exceed 10% in the first and last 5 feet, or 25% in the intervening distance. The driveway profile shall be constructed so that automobiles can safely and conveniently traverse it, and should provide a smooth transition between grades. A transition shall be constructed utilizing a vertical curve of 30 feet or longer where the change in grade is 5% or greater. A variance in grade may be granted by the Superintendent of Public Works after submission of plans by a registered civil engineer, and after approval by the City Engineer, considering safety, drainage and utility.

Section 3. That Section 1310.61 of the Municipal Code is amended to read as follows:

DRIVEWAY GRADES. The grade of the sloped portion of a driveway measured along the center line shall not exceed 10% in the first and last 5 feet, or 25% in the intervening distance. The driveway profile shall be constructed so that automobiles can safely and conveniently traverse it, and should provide a smooth transition between grades. A transition shall be constructed utilizing a vertical curve of 30 feet or longer where the change in grade is 5% or greater. A variance in grade may be granted by the Building Inspector after submission of plans by a registered civil engineer, and after approval by the City Engineer, considering safety, drainage and utility. The grade at the property line shall be established by the Superintendent of Public Works. Said Superintendent shall take into account any existing or probably future curbs, sidewalks and street improvements.

Section 4. Effective Date. This Ordinance shall become effective thirty (30) days after its final passage and adoption.

PASSED AND ADOPTED by the City Council of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea this 7th day of January, 1970, by the following roll call vote:
AYES: COUNCILMEN: Blanks Falge, Whittlesey and Laiolo
NOES: COUNCILMEN: None
ABSENT: COUNCILMEN: Brown

APPROVED:
/s/ BARNEY LAIOLO
Mayor of said City

ATTEST:
/s/ HUGH BAYLESS
City Clerk thereof

CERTIFICATION OF CITY CLERK

I, HUGH BAYLESS, the undersigned; City Clerk of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, California, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of Ordinance No. 187 C.S., which was given its First Reading at a Regular Meeting of said City Council on the 3rd day of December, 1969, and finally adopted at a Regular Meeting of the said Council on the 7th day of January, 1970.

I further certify that upon its passage the foregoing Ordinance was signed by the Mayor of said City and attested by the City Clerk thereof.

DATED this 9th day of January, 1970.

Elbow grease and imagination could turn this older home, located just THREE blocks from the BEACH and south of Ocean Ave., into a spectacular home. There's lots of room in this four-bedroom, three-bath abode, with a large living room and separate dining room. BEST of all there are two lots and the value of the lots would almost equal the ASKING price for the total improved property. As is price $47,500.

TOO LARGE? TOO SMALL? TOO NEAR? TOO FAR?

We enjoy solving real estate problems. A satisfied customer is our objective.

Become one of them by looking at our two-bedroom, den or third bedroom, two-bath home up on Martin Road, a quiet cul de sac. With a substantial initial deposit, the owners will carry the 1st TD for five years on a 25-year amortization basis with interest at 7½% per annum – no loan fee and no payoff penalty. Priced at just a bit more than twice the value of the lot at $55,000, $15,000 down would make your principal and interest payments $295.60 per month. Compare that sum with your rental payments, particularly if you have a Point Lobos view which this home does have. We'll be expecting you.

Carmel, $29,500

Is this "Carmel-ish?" Ivy covered front entrance, stone fireplace, vaulted ceilings, redwood paneling, sunny kitchen, Dutch doors, southwest patio, 1 bedroom in main house and detached bedroom and bath for the visitors, oak trees, and two blocks from the grocery store? Investigate!

Carmel, $34,950 Furnished

Brick-paved driveway and courtyard behind the ivy covered grapestake privacy fence, Carmel stone fireplace with tile hearth, a big bedroom and a small one – a completely remodeled home with a great new kitchen and bath. New carpeting. Attached garage. Charm of an older home with no related problems. Neighbor to Sunset Center (Only $33,950 if you want it unfurnished).

Carmel Valley, $32,500

Charming adobe on the side of a hill with magnificent views. Rooms are small scale, with two sunny bedrooms, and the small amount of time required to keep the well organized space in order allows plenty of time to lounge around in the Valley sunshine on your patio under the magnificent oak trees. Shouldn't you see it?

Pacific Grove, $24,500

Little red doll house behind a picket fence in a very nice neighborhood, walking distance to town. Beautifully carpeted living room with a warm and friendly fireplace, exposed beams. One owner-size, one guest-size bedroom. Bath has both tub and shower. Sunny kitchen is picture-book pretty and there's a service porch, wonderful back yard and patio. Single garage plus off-street parking for boat or trailer. In A-1 condition. You'll hate yourself if you don't see it!

Council agenda--

appointed in 1968 to fill ourt the term of a councilman (William Sefton) who had resigned just after the last city election.

In addition to the vote on the Council positions, there will be balloting on a question as to whether or not the city clerk's and the city treasurer's positions should, or should not, continued to be elective. Voters could also be asked whether or not they wish to elect their mayor, or whether that choice is to continue to be left to Councilmen, but so far no decision so to do has been made by the Council.

(As mentioned elsewhere in this issue of the Pine Cone, the Council is due to decide next February 4th, whether or not voters are to be asked if the City should, or should not, take over the Carmel Museum of Art.)

City Council members were unanimous in their resolution of appreciation to retired Fire Chief J. R. Belvail for his many years of both volunteer and paid service. He first became a fire department volunteer in July 1941.

The Council set for hearing the proposal to compel the removal of "dead and diseased" trees on the property of several Carmel property owners, at 8 p.m., Feb. 4. Trees on the properties of Sophia McGraw, Robert Edgren, Franklin Grundy, Margaret Levick, Alfred Brown, and the Cherry Foundation, are marked for removal. Street Superintendent William Askew – upon being by Councilman Herbert Blanks – said he had either notified, or attempted to notify, all the property owners involved.

'Blue Ribbon' to Monterey Fair

The first "blue ribbon award" presented by Western Fairs Association ever given at Monterey County Fair has been awarded to the Del Monte Shopping Center Merchants Assn.

Fair Manager George Wise made the presentation at a board of directors' meeting last week.

He explained the award goes to the exhibitor, either an individual or an organization, who is judged to have performed the most outstanding public service for the fair.

Wise cited the Association's sponsorship of the very popular Indian village, set up and manned by Monterey Peninsula Boy Scouts, its purchase of animals at the Junior Livestock Auction, and its gift of a daily program to fairgoers, as elements which led to the group's selection as the first recipient of the Blue Ribbon Award at a Monterey County Fair.

Ernest Batt, president of the Merchants Association, received the certificate for the group.

Wise said presentation of an WFA blue ribbon award is expected to be an annual occurence at future Monterey County fairs.

He reminded the group of this year's fair dates, to be from Aug. 12 to Aug. 16 and said planning already is well under way for a fair which will exceed the record-breaking event of 1969.

Mission Trails Heart Assn. 1970 resolutions

"Resolved, I will act now to reduce my risk of heart attack."

This New Year's resolution was suggested for adoption by all local residents by the Central Mission Trails Heart Association, which suggested these steps:

1. Eat less saturated (animal) fat, getting a larger portion of your fat requirement from polyunsaturated (vegetable) fats, and avoiding high-cholesterol foods.

2. Don't smoke cigarettes. Cigarette smokers have more than twice the risk of non-smokers of having a heart attack.

3. Maintain normal weight. Middle-age men who are 30 per cent or more over their normal weight have twice the risk of heart attack as compared with middle-aged men of normal weight.

4. Adopt a program of regular exercise that is compatible with your age and physical condition.

5. See your doctor regularly for a physical check-up, enabling him to begin prompt treatment of any high blood pressure or diabetes that may be present.

The Heart Association said that in an average population group the chances of having a heart attack before 65 are less than 1 in 20 if the individual has no risk factors. But a person with three risk factors – for example, cigarette smoking, high blood cholesterol and high blood pressure – has a 1-in-2 probability of having a heart attack before 65.

Another important way to reduce the risk of heart attack, it suggested, is to give full support to the 1970 Heart Fund Campaign.

beach at Monterey Bay by Reverend Carmelite fathers who accompanied explorer Don Sebastian Vizccaino.

On June 3, 1770, Don Gaspar de Portola, commander of a land expedition, met with Fray Junipero Serra, founder of the California Mission chain, on the beach at Monterey, and raised the flag of Spain to lay cliam, in the name of the king of Spain, Carlos III, to all Alta California.

After that ceremony, MAss was celebrated near the same oak tree and the Mission San Carlos de Borromea was founded for the conversion of the Indians to Christianity, the resolution chronicles.

On Apr. 11, 1822, news reached the town of Monterey that Mexico had overthrown Spanish rule and gained its independence. In 1825 California acknowledged jurisdiction of and pledged allegiance to the Republic of Mexico. In 1849 the California Bear Flag was raised over Colton Hall in Monterey when a State Constitutional Convention declared California, with its capitol at Monterey to be the first Pacific Coast state of the United States of America. In 1850, California was admitted as a free state to the Union under the compromise of 1850.

Dr. Virginia Apgar urges vaccination of children against rubella (German measles) to eliminate the disease. When a pregnant woman is infected, her child may be born with severe defects.

Drug abuse help

Publication of a pamphlet listing hundreds of organizations which provide help to persons abusing drugs was announced today by Spencer Williams, secretary of the State Human Relations Agency.

"Abuse of drugs and narcotics, particularly by our young people, is reaching epidemic proportions, bringing anguish to thousands of users and their families who do not know where to turn for help," Williams said.

The publication "Community Services on Drug Abuse" is available free from the California Youth Authority, 714 P Street, Sacramento (95814).
